PREFACE.

By order of the Legislature of 1864, there was published a Catalogue of the Regiments and Batteries in the service of the United States from this State, giving the record of each man up to July 1st of that year. The rebellion closed in 1865, and the Legislature of 1866 authorized the Adjutant-General to publish a Catalogue which should give the complete record of each Connecticut soldier during his term of service. By an oversight, this resolution was not approved by the Governor, and consequently did not become a law.

The Legislature of 1867 again passed a resolution authorizing the publication of the Catalogue, but with a proviso, as follows: "Provided the cost of publishing the same shall not exceed two dollars per copy." It was found that an appropriation of two dollars per copy would not defray the expenses of the publication, and I so stated in my report of March, 1868; the Legislature at its May session following, passed the act herewith published, in accordance with the provisions of which this Catalogue is compiled.

C. M. INGERSOLL,

Adjutant-General.

GENERAL HEAD-QUARTERS STATE OF CONNECTICUT,
NEW HAVEN, September 10th, 1869.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY,
MAY SESSION, A. D. 1868. }

DIRECTING THE ADJUTANT-GENERAL TO PUBLISH A CATALOGUE OF THE REGIMENTS AND BATTERIES FROM THIS STATE WHICH WERE IN THE LATE REBELLION.

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Adjutant-General of this State, be and he is hereby directed to prepare the manuscript for a Catalogue or roll of the Regiments and Batteries which were in the service of the United States from this State during the period of the late rebellion; with the date of enlistment, rank, residence, transfer, muster-out, desertion, and all casualties resulting in the death or discharge of such soldier; the same being a complete record of each soldier aforesaid during his whole term of service; and the Adjutant-General is further directed to prepare a brief summary of the operations in field or other service of said Regiments and Batteries from the mustering-in to the mustering-out of service of the same, to be arranged in the proper place in said Catalogue. And the Adjutant-General is hereby authorized and directed to make a contract with Messrs. Brown and Gross, of Hartford, for printing and publishing under his direction, one thousand copies of said Catalogue properly and suitably bound in sheep-skin, for the use of the State, at a cost not to exceed five dollars per copy, and to surrender the "Copyright" of said Catalogue to said Brown & Gross;— one copy to be forwarded to the Town Clerk of each Town, one copy to each Judge of Probate in this State to be kept in their respective offices and handed over to their successors, and one copy to the Adjutant-General of each State of the United States. Also one copy to each State officer, and each officer and member of the present General Assembly, and the balance to be kept in the office of the Adjutant-General of this State.

Approved July 24, 1868.

FIRST REGIMENT INFANTRY.

THE First Connecticut Regiment Infantry (3 months) was recruited largely from the volunteer militia, and numbered seven hundred and eighty (780) men. It left New Haven for Washington, May 9, 1861. The men were armed with Sharps' rifles and United States Springfield rifled muskets. Colonel Daniel Tyler, a graduate of West Point, and serving with distinction for a number of years in the regular army, was appointed to the command. Under his auspices the regiment was brought into a high state of efficiency and discipline. On the 10th day of May he was promoted to be a Brigadier-General, and at the battle of Bull Run was in command of a division. Colonel George S. Burnham, his successor, had been connected for a number of years with the State volunteer organization, and he was in command at the battle of Bull Run, and acquitted himself with honor.

After remaining in camp of instruction for some time, on the morning of the 21st of July, the regiment was ordered to advance on the Warrenton road towards Bull Run, where the enemy had entrenched himself. After marching and countermarching, at times under severe fire, until four o'clock, P. M., the regiment had orders to retreat, which they did in good order, though hotly pursued, their loss being only eight (8) wounded and nine (9) missing. Resting awhile at Centerville, they were ordered back to their old camp at Falls Church, reaching that place on the morning of the 22d, when, according to orders, their tents were struck, and they remained during the day exposed to a drenching rain, occasioning much suffering on account of the very fatiguing duties of the previous day, and the want of needed rest.

Its term of service having expired, the regiment was mustered out of service at New Haven, July 31st, 1861.

SECOND REGIMENT INFANTRY.

THE Second Connecticut Regiment Infantry (3 months) was, like the First, recruited from the volunteer militia. It left New Haven for Washington, May 10, 1861, numbering seven hundred and eighty (780) men. They were armed with Sharps' Rifles, with the exception of two companies which were armed with United States Springfield muskets. Colonel Alfred H. Terry, of New Haven, was placed in command of the regiment. He was, for a number of years, connected with the State military organization, and was one of the most efficient and accomplished officers in the service, having devoted much time and attention to military matters, both in this country and in Europe. At the commencement of the war he was Colonel of the Second Regiment, State Volunteer Militia, and was very popular with those under his command. The regiment was present at the battle of Bull Run, where both officers and men acquitted themselves with honor. This regiment was mustered out of service on the 7th day of August, 1861, at New Haven, Conn.

THIRD REGIMENT INFANTRY.

THE Third Connecticut Regiment Infantry (3 months), the numerical strength of which was seven hundred and eighty (780) men, left Hartford for Washington, May 25th, 1861. They were armed with United States smooth-bore muskets. Colonel John Arnold, long a prominent officer in the State Militia, and instructor in a number of military schools, was placed in command. He tendered his resignation, on account of ill-health, May 29, 1861, and was honorably discharged. Colonel John L. Chatfield, his successor, acquired his military education in the State Militia. He was a strict disciplinarian, and much beloved by the officers and men composing his command. This regiment was at the battle of Bull Run, and behaved with the steadiness and gallantry of veterans. The regiment was mustered out of service at Hartford on the 12th day of August, 1861.

FIRST SQUADRON CONNECTICUT CAVALRY.

UPON the application of Capt. William H. Mallory, August 1st, 1861, authority was given to recruit this Squadron, to compose a part of a volunteer regiment of Cavalry, to be raised in different States, with the understanding and agreement that it was to be distinctly a Connecticut organization—to be officered by the Governor of this State, and each enlisted man to be entitled to and to receive the bounties paid by this State to Connecticut volunteers, both personal and to families.

On the part of the State this agreement was faithfully carried out, but was not by other parties. Not an officer was appointed by the Governor of Connecticut after the first appointments were made.

The battalion was finally assigned to New York, and was known as the 2d New York Cavalry (Harris Light Cavalry), was counted on the quota of that State, and the names of its commissioned officers were borne upon the register of that State, while at the same time the State of Connecticut was paying bounties to the men enlisted from the State, and for whom it received no credit from the General Government.

In many cases, owing to the want of official returns, bounties have been paid from the State treasury to the families of men after they had deserted or been discharged, in one instance the bounty having been drawn for a year after the soldier had deserted.

No official reports of the operations have been received, and the files of Muster Rolls and Returns are so incomplete that a reliable history of events or summary of operations cannot be given.

The 2d New York Cavalry is reported, by the Adjutant-General of New York, as having been mustered out on the 23d day of June, 1865.

FIRST CONNECTICUT CAVALRY.

THE First Connecticut Cavalry was originally a battalion of four companies, and was recruited, one company from each Congressional District, in the fall of 1861.

The battalion left West Meriden, Conn., for Wheeling, Va., on the 20th day of February, 1862, numbering three hundred and forty-six (346) officers and men.

Remaining in camp of instruction at Wheeling until March 27th, they proceeded to Moorefield, in Western Virginia, and immediately entered upon the arduous labors peculiar to their branch of the service.

The battalion, under Major Lyon, as a part of General Schenck's brigade, took part in the battle of McDowell, May 8th, between the forces of Generals Schenck and Milroy and the rebel army under General Jackson, and also in the operations which terminated in the battle of Franklin, May 11th and 12th, 1862.

The battalion likewise served in the army of General Fremont, then in command of the Mountain Department, in his celebrated forced march across the mountains into the Shenandoah Valley, to the relief of General Banks, participating, while in the pursuit of Jackson's force, up the valley, in the battles of Harrisonburg, June 6th, Cross Keys, June 8th, and Port Republic, June 9th.

They were subsequently attached to General Stahl's brigade, 1st Army Corps, under Major General Sigel, and took part in the arduous operations of the Army of Virginia under General Pope, participating in the various battles along the Rapidan and the Rappahannock, and at Bull Run and Chantilly.

After nearly a year of constant activity, the battalion was assigned to duty as Provost Guard in the City of Baltimore, Md., and while on this duty was increased to a full regiment of twelve (12) companies.

In February, 1863, the regiment was attached to the Army of the Potomac, and took an active part in all its movements, until the 8th day of August, 1864, when it was transferred to the Army of the Shenandoah.

History alone can do full justice to the brave men who composed this regiment. Suffice it to say, that the First Connecticut Cavalry, while under General Sheridan, maintained a reputation for fidelity and bravery second to no other Cavalry regiment.

The regiment continued in service under Colonels Ives and Whitaker until August 2d, 1865, performing gallant service, gaining a well merited reputation, and doing honor to the State that sent it into the field.

The regiment was mustered out at Washington, D. C., August 2d, 1865, and left that city August 3d for New Haven, Conn., to be finally discharged; upon the request of Colonel Ives, the regiment were permitted to take their horses with them to the State, many of the men being desirous of purchasing them; such a favor was given to no other Cavalry regiment.

On the 17th and 18th of August all the officers and men received their pay and final discharges.

FIRST LIGHT BATTERY.

THE 1st Connecticut Light Battery was organized in October, 1861, and rendezvoused at West Meriden, Conn. It left the State for Port Royal, S. C., January 13, 1862, numbering one hundred and fifty-six (156) men.

The battery remained in the Department of the South until April 18th, 1864, when it left Folly Island upon the transports Gen. Meigs and Ella Knight, bound for Fortress Monroe; arriving there on the 22d of April, it disembarked on the 23d at Gloucester Point, and was ordered to report to General Terry, commanding the forces at that place.

On the 4th of May, the battery was again embarked upon transports and on the 6th of May landed at Bermuda Hundred, and took up the line of march for the Richmond and Petersburg road. On the 10th of May, it took an active part in the battle of Chester Station, and notwithstanding the efforts of the enemy, who charged the battery three times during the engagement, the casualties were but two men wounded.

On the 13th of May the battery was temporarily transferred to the 18th Army Corps, and were placed in position upon the Richmond and Petersburg turnpike; it was, however, ordered back to the 10th Army Corps on the 14th in time to participate in the battle of Proctor's Creek. (It was in this battle, that Lieut. Metcalf was mortally wounded, death ensuing on the day following.) The battery was engaged in active service from this date until October 29th, when it was ordered to City Point, for the purpose of exchanging its guns ("James' Rifle") for light 12 pp-r Napoleons.

On the 4th of December, the Light Artillery Brigade of the 10th Army Corps was transferred to the 25th Army Corps, and the battery proceeded to take up its position near the James River, in the rear of Fort Burnham. It continued to serve in the Army of Virginia, and in the vicinity of Richmond, until its final muster out, on the 11th of June, 1865.

In December, 1863, forty-six (46) of the original members re-enlisted as veterans, and after its organization, about one hundred and forty recruits joined the battery, from Connecticut.

The following list will show the principal—ENGAGEMENTS.

- James Island, S. C.*, June 14th, 1862.

SECOND LIGHT BATTERY.

THE Second Connecticut Light Battery was organized in August, 1862, and was composed of two batteries of State Militia of Bridgeport.

Capt. J. W. Sterling, its original commander, received marching orders October 15th, 1862, and the battery at once proceeded to Washington, D. C., and upon its arrival was assigned to the Army of the Potomac.

On the 25th of June, 1863, it was ordered to report to General Robert O. Tyler, commanding the "Artillery Reserve, Army of the Potomac." Shortly after being placed in the command of Gen. Tyler, the whole force proceeded to Gettysburg, and were engaged in that battle, July 3d, the loss of the battery being three men wounded.

After numerous and tedious marches and counter-marches, in Maryland, the battery, on the 21st of July, was ordered to camp on Meridian Hill, near Washington, where it remained until the 16th of August, when it was ordered to Alexandria, Va., where it embarked on board transport and proceeded to New York, arriving on the 22d of the same month, and remaining until the 15th of October, when it returned to Washington.

On the 21st of January, 1864, the battery was ordered to proceed to Baltimore, Md., and take transport for New Orleans, La.

Upon its arrival in the "Department of the Gulf" it was for a while stationed at Brashear City, with one section at Thibodeaux.

On the 17th of June it proceeded to Algiers, La., and on the 31st of July following was embarked on transport for Dauphin Island, Mobile Harbor.

August 6th the battery took an active part in the engagement at Fort Gaines, and on the 19th of the same month participated in the reduction of Fort Morgan.

On the 8th of September, it returned again to New Orleans, and continued to serve in Louisiana until February, 1865, when it proceeded to Florida, arriving at Barrancas on the 1st of March; it was again on the march for Pensacola on the 11th, and from that time until April was engaged only in light marches and the routine of camp life.

From April 5th to April 9th the battery was engaged with the enemy near Blakely, Ala., the 9th of April witnessing the carrying of the enemy's works by assault.

The battery continued to serve in the Department of the Gulf until its return to Connecticut, in July, 1865, for muster-out. It was finally mustered out on the 9th of August, 1865, at New Haven, Conn.

That the services of this battery were fully appreciated the reports of Division and Corps commanders will attest.

The following are some of its principal—ENGAGEMENTS.

Gettysburg, Pa., July 3d, 1863.
Fort Gaines, Ala., August 6th, 1864.
Fort Morgan, Ala., August 19th, 1864.
Near Blakely, Ala., April 5th to 9th, 1865.

THIRD INDEPENDENT LIGHT BATTERY.

THE 3d Connecticut Independent Battery was organized in October, 1864, at Conscript Camp, Fair Haven, for one year's service, and on the 16th of November, in pursuance of Special Order, No. 126 from Head-Quarters Volunteer Recruiting Service of Connecticut, left the State under command of Capt. Thomas S. Gilbert; arriving at Broadway Landing, Va., on the 19th of November, 1864.

Capt. Gilbert reported with his command to Brevet Brigadier-General H. L. Abbott, Colonel 1st Connecticut Artillery, receiving from him instructions to disembark the Battery at City Point, Va., on the evening of the 19th, and encamp near the line of defences.

On the 26th of November the battery occupied Redoubts No.'s 2, 5, 7 and 8 of the City Point line of Artillery Defences.

During the attempt of the Rebel Iron Clads to force a passage by the batteries and obstructions in the James River, a section of the battery with $4\frac{1}{2}$ inch Siege Guns, was stationed in front of the Head Quarters of Lieut. General Grant, covering the wharves and store-houses.

On the 29th of January, 1865, the whole battery was again returned to the Redoubts.

At the time of the grand advance of the Army upon the rebel lines, all the Infantry and Engineer troops were ordered forward, leaving the line wholly dependent upon the Artillery; and the men of Capt. Gilbert's command remained at their guns day and night, ready for action.

Although they were not called upon during the memorable days between the fall of Petersburg and the surrender of General Lee, yet had the opportunity offered, the officers and men of the 3d Connecticut Independent Battery would have sustained the reputation, always awarded to the brave soldiers of Connecticut, on nearly every battle field of the Republic.

After the surrender of the Rebel Army, the battery was constantly employed in the dismantling of fortifications and the removal of ordnance and ordnance-stores from the rebel fortifications encircling Richmond, north of the James.

On the 20th of June, Capt. Gilbert was ordered by the Commissary of Musters Department of Virginia to prepare Muster-out Rolls of all the enlisted men of his battery whose term of service expired prior to October 1st, 1865; these rolls embraced ninety-three (93) names, and was furnished on the 23d. The battery was mustered out (with the exception of twenty-seven (27) men, who were transferred to the First Connecticut Artillery, in accordance with instructions from the War Department) and proceeded to New Haven, Connecticut, where the officers and men were paid off, and on the 3d of July, 1865, the battery was disbanded.

FIRST REGIMENT HEAVY ARTILLERY.

THE First Regiment Connecticut Heavy Artillery was organized as the Fourth Regiment Infantry, Colonel Levi Woodhouse commanding, in the Spring of 1861, and left for the seat of war June 10th, 1861. It served as an Infantry regiment until January 2d, 1862, when, by special orders from the War Department, the regiment was changed to Heavy Artillery, to consist of twelve (12) companies of one hundred and fifty (150) men each.

The regiment was temporarily stationed in the fortifications about Washington, but upon the commencement of the Peninsula campaign, the regiment, under the command of Colonel Robert O. Tyler, accompanied the army with a siege train of seventy-one pieces of artillery. It took a prominent part in the siege of Yorktown, and in the series of engagements at Hanover Court House, Gaines' Mills, Malvern Hill, Chickahominy, and Golden Hills.

The services and gallantry of the regiment were recognized by an order directing the names "Siege of Yorktown, Hanover Court House, Chickahominy, Gaines' Mills, and Malvern," to be emblazoned on its colors.

The high character of the regiment had been so well sustained, that it was ranked, by competent military judges, as the best volunteer regiment of heavy artillery in the field, and was considered a model worthy of imitation.

Among the reasons mentioned for its superiority, were the material in physique and intelligence, and its thorough drill and excellent discipline, acquired under the command of Col. Tyler, one of the most efficient and thorough disciplinarians in the army. This regiment has furnished to other organizations the following named officers, who have served with distinction in the field, Lieut. Col. Perkins, Major Clark, and Capt. E. W. Gibbons of the 14th, Major Washburn and Capt. Mix of the 16th, Lieut. Col. Kellogg and Capt. Ellis of the 19th regiment (2d Connecticut Artillery.)

On the 19th of November, 1862, Col. Tyler was promoted to be Brigadier General, and Capt. Henry L. Abbott of the United States Topographical Engineers was appointed to the command.

On the withdrawal of the army from the Peninsula, the regiment was ordered to the forts at Washington, with the exception of two companies, which remained with the army of the Rappahannock, and participated in the bombardment of Fredericksburg.

On the 10th of May, 1864, the regiment under Col. Abbott was ordered to report in advance of their siege trains, to Major General Butler, then near Bermuda Hundred, Va., where they arrived May 13th, about 1700 strong, but 349 men were discharged in ten days thereafter, on account of the expiration of their term of service; the regiment was, however, soon recruited to the maximum. During its service in this campaign several companies from other organizations were attached to it. June 28th, companies A and H of the 13th New York Artillery, commanded by Capt. William Pendrell, were so attached by command of General Butler, and they were placed in the lines of Bermuda Hundred.

Ten companies of the Fourth New York Artillery, Lieut. Col. Allock commanding, aggregate 1072 men, were added by command of General Hunt, July 14th, and were detached August 4th.

The Third Connecticut Independent Battery was temporarily attached to the regiment, on the 15th day of November, by special orders of the War Department.

In January, 1865, a portion of the regiment accompanied the siege train commanded by Col. Abbott, whose destination eventually proved to be Fort Fisher. On the 15th of January, Fort Fisher having been carried by assault, the train was returned to the old lines.

With a regiment so widely scattered as was this, unusually responsible duties devolved upon subordinate officers, all of whom are highly spoken of by Col. Abbott, who at the same time compliments the enlisted men for the satisfactory and laudable manner in which they seconded the efforts of their officers. Major General W. T. Smith, in a letter to Colonel Abbott, writes, "I saw much of the service of the First Connecticut Artillery, and was delighted with the skill and gallantry of the officers and men. During the time I commanded the 18th Army Corps before Petersburg, I called heavily upon you for siege guns and mortars, and never before during the war have I witnessed such artillery practice as I saw with your regiment; the practicability of holding my position there after the 1st of June was due in a great measure to the skill displayed by your regiment."

The regiment continued to serve with the Army of the Potomac and the Army of the James, until the evacuation of Petersburg and Richmond by the rebel forces in April, 1865. In July, 1865, the regiment returned to Washington, and on the 25th of September, 1865, was mustered out, after having been in the service of the United States four years and four months.

The regiment has taken part in the following

SECOND REGIMENT HEAVY ARTILLERY.

The Second Connecticut Heavy Artillery, was recruited in Litchfield County, as the "Nineteenth Regiment of Infantry," and was commanded by Colonel L. W. Wessells.

The regiment left for Washington, on the 15th of September, 1862; arriving in that city, it was assigned to the Army of the Potomac, and was stationed at Alexandria, Va.

On the 23d of November, 1863, the regiment was changed from an infantry to an artillery organization, by General Order No. 520 from the War Department, and was subsequently designated by His Excellency, Governor Buckingham, in General Order No. 195, as the Second Connecticut Heavy Artillery.

During the year 1863, it was engaged in garrison duty in the "Defenses of Washington, South of the Potomac," in Forts North, Ellsworth, Lyon, Weld, Farnsworth, Williams and Willard, and was in the same brigade with the First Connecticut Artillery, forming the Second Brigade of DeRussey's Division, Defenses of Washington.

From December 1st, 1863, to February 20th, 1864, the regiment was being rapidly recruited, and was increased from an aggregate of seven hundred and fifty-seven (757) men to the maximum of an Artillery Regiment.

On the 21st of May, 1864, the regiment was assigned to the 2d Brigade, 1st Division, 6th Army Corps, and was continually on the march from that time to the 1st of June, when they were called upon to participate in the battle of Cold Harbor, Va., suffering the loss in killed of the brave and able soldiers, Colonel Elisha S. Kellogg and Captain Luman Wadhams; the total loss to the regiment, being two hundred and eighty-five (285) in killed, wounded and missing.

The regiment remained with the 6th Corps until the close of the war; taking an active part in the various engagements in the vicinity of Petersburg, and was finally mustered out of service on the 18th of August, 1865, at Washington, D. C.

The muster-in rolls of the 19th Regiment, Connecticut Infantry, bore the names of eight hundred and ninety-one (891) men, but upon the change of arm from infantry to artillery, and subsequently, a large number of recruits were added to its ranks; and the whole number of men who have served in this organization, is two thousand seven hundred and nineteen (2,719) officers and men.

The official reports of the operations of this regiment are to a certain extent, incomplete, consequently it is impracticable to furnish as thorough a history of its operations as is desirable, or to place upon record as full a report of its engagements, as the long and arduous services of the brave officers and men who composed it, so truly merit.

The pen of the historian will more effectually portray the gallant deeds of the Second Connecticut Artillery, than this brief attempt at a summary.

The following are some of its principal—ENGAGEMENTS.

Cold Harbor, Va. , June 1st, 1864,	-	Total loss, 285.

FIFTH REGIMENT INFANTRY.

The Fifth Regiment Connecticut Volunteers was organized in June, 1861, and was originally recruited for what was termed "Colt's Rifle Regiment," but owing to some misunderstanding, it was deemed advisable to disband it, when the men were organized into the Fifth Regiment of Infantry, under the command of Col. Orris S. Ferry.

It left for the seat of war July 29th, 1861. On the 17th of March, 1862, Col. Ferry was promoted to be Brigadier General, and Lieut. Col. Geo. D. Chapman to be Colonel.

Under Col. Chapman the regiment saw much active service, and performed more exhausting marches than almost any other regiment from Connecticut, having marched more than fifteen hundred miles, at one time marching for twenty-nine consecutive days, and in one day the unusual distance of forty-five miles.

On leaving the State it had orders to report to Major General Banks, then at Harper's Ferry, commanding what was termed the "Department of the Shenandoah."

March 1st, 1862, it crossed the Potomac at Williamsport, Md., drove the enemy from Winchester, and occupied the place, but on the 24th of May, after a well fought battle, was obliged to recross the Potomac, together with the entire army. The conduct of the Fifth Connecticut Regiment at that time, especially during the retreat of the main army, is mentioned in the reports of the Brigade and Division commanders as deserving the highest praise.

The regiment again went into battle at Cedar Mountain on the 9th of August, with eight companies, numbering about four hundred (400) men, and fought most gallantly, every officer that entered the fight, but three, being either killed, wounded or taken prisoner. It formed a part of the reserve force in the battle near Washington, and was with Gen. Pope through all his campaigns in Virginia.

The regiment was also with General McClellan when that General moved into Maryland. The day before the battle of South Mountain it was detached in Frederick City for Provost duty, and there remained for nearly three months. Again on the 1st, 2d and 3d of May, the Fifth was called upon to participate in the battle of Chancellorsville, and acquitted itself most creditably. July 1st, 2d and 3d occurred the memorable battle of Gettysburg, in which the regiment took an active part, although, from the peculiar disposition of its forces, the casualties were less than in any former battle—three wounded and five missing.

In December, 1863, the regiment was transferred to the "Department of the Cumberland," and shortly afterwards accompanied General Sherman in his grand march through the States of Georgia and the Carolinas. About the time of the transfer of the regiment, two hundred and eighty (280) of the original members re-enlisted as veterans, and the whole number of men who served in the regiment was two thousand and sixty-one (2,061).

On the 15th of May, 1864, it participated in the battle of R-saca, Ga., losing in killed and wounded fifty-one (51) officers and men. Again on the 25th of the same month it was engaged in the battle of Dallas, Ga. The regiment also bore a part in the succeeding battles of Marietta, Peach Tree Creek, and Atlanta, Ga., Chesterfield Court House, S. C., and the battle of Silver Run, N. C., which was its last engagement with the enemy. Its loss in this battle was twenty-four (24) men in killed, wounded and missing.

On the 19th of July, 1865, the regiment was mustered out of service, leaving behind them a record for valor of which Connecticut may well be proud.

It participated in eleven general

SIXTH REGIMENT INFANTRY.

THE Sixth Regiment Connecticut Volunteers was organized in August, 1861, under the auspices of Colonel John L. Chatfield, who was transferred from the 3rd Regiment. It left New Haven, Conn., for Washington, D. C., September 17th, 1861; its numerical strength being one thousand and eight (1008) men.

The Regiment being assigned to the Department of the South, it was connected with the expedition which resulted in the battle of James Island, June 14th, 1862, and was engaged in the battle of Pocotaligo, October 22d, 1862, in which it lost thirty-three (33) men in killed and wounded; among the latter, were Colonel Chatfield and Lieut. Colonel Speidel, both severely. The regiment continued in the Department of the South during the year 1863, and participated with the army under General Gilmore, in the attack upon the fortifications around Charleston, S. C.

It is reported, by the commanding General, as having exhibited great efficiency and bravery in the assault upon the batteries on Morris Island, July 10th, and 18th, 1863.

In the second assault on Fort Wagner, Colonel John L. Chatfield, while bravely leading his men to the charge was severely wounded, and carried from the field; he returned to his home in Waterbury, and died on the 9th day of August, 1863. It may well be said of him that a brave man has gone to his reward.

On the 27th of October, Colonel Redfield Duryee was promoted to be Colonel, and on the 29th of May, 1864, was compelled by protracted ill health, the result of exhaustive service and exposure, to resign. He was succeeded by Colonel Alfred P. Rockwell, who was mustered out, February 9th, 1865, his term of service having expired.

On the 27th of April, 1864, the regiment embarked at Hilton Head, S. C., on board the steamer Northern Light, for Fort Monroe, Va; where it arrived on the 1st of May, and immediately proceeded to Gloucester Point, disembarked, and was assigned to the 2d Brigade, 1st Division, 10th Army Corps. It at once advanced to Bermuda Hundred, and on the 6th, proceeded into the interior where it was engaged in reconnoissance, destruction of the enemy's railroads, and harassing their forces.

On the 13th, the regiment was temporarily assigned to Colonel Alford's brigade, General Turner's division, 10th army corps, and ordered to the skirmish line, where it remained until the 16th, being continually under fire from the enemy's pickets. On the 20th, having been attached to Colonel Howell's brigade, 1st division, 10th army corps, the regiment was engaged in the charge upon and capture of the enemy's line of rifle pits.

From this time until January, 1865, it continued its operations in Southeast Virginia, and took part in several engagements before Petersburg and Richmond.

In January it was ordered to embark for Wilmington, N. C., and on the 15th of January participated in the battle and capture of Fort Fisher.

On the 21st of August, 1865, the Sixth was mustered out of the service of the United States, and received their final pay at New Haven, Ct.

In December, 1863, two hundred and five (205) of its original members, re-enlisted as veterans, and during its term of service, more than six hundred (600) recruits were credited to it; these with the one thousand and eight (1008) who went into the field originally, make an aggregate of one thousand eight hundred and thirteen (1813) men who have served with the regiment.

SEVENTH REGIMENT INFANTRY.

The Seventh Regiment Connecticut Volunteers was organized in the summer of 1861, and was composed largely of those who had served in the three months regiments.

Col. Alfred H. Terry of the 2d Regiment was transferred to the command of this regiment, and Lieut. Col. Joseph R. Hawley, the second in command, was captain in the 3d Ct.

The regiment left the State for Washington on the 18th of September, 1861, numbering ten hundred and eighteen (1018) men. It was in the expedition to Port Royal, and was the first to land and plant their colors on the soil of South Carolina. Upon the receipt of the news the Governor caused a congratulatory order to be issued from the Adjutant-General's office, announcing the fact, and ordered that it be read to each Connecticut regiment in the field.

This regiment was engaged in the battle of Fort Pulaski, April 10th and 11th, 1862. On the 19th of May following, Col. Terry was promoted to be Brigadier General, and Lt. Col. Hawley was promoted to the colonelcy of the regiment.

On the 14th of June the regiment participated in the battle of James Island, and suffered severely, being one of the first to enter the action and one of the last to leave the field. Its loss in this engagement was eighty-three (83) in killed, wounded and missing; among the former, two commissioned officers. In an official report dated June 14th, 1862, Col. Hawley speaks in the highest terms of the gallant and fearless conduct of both officers and men.

October 22d, the regiment was again engaged in the battle of Pocotaligo, and met with the loss, in killed and wounded, of twenty-nine (29) men. Subsequently the regiment was divided, and on the 1st of April, 1863, five companies were at Hilton Head under the command of Col. Hawley, and the remainder with Lt. Col. Gardiner, at Fernandina, Fla.

July 10th and 11th, companies "A," "B," "I," and "K," were present and took an active part in the battles of Morris Island and Fort Wagner; the aggregate loss in the two days fight was one hundred and eleven (111) men. Capt. Gray, in his official report of these battles, dated July 13th, 1863, speaks in the highest terms of the bravery of the officers and men of the detachment. The loss of officers was terribly severe. Capt. Gray mentions the fact that of eleven officers in his mess, but four were left. The Seventh Connecticut Regiment was declared by General Strong "to have covered itself with glory."

From this time until May 4th, 1864, it was engaged in active service, performing the arduous and laborious duties attendant upon a life "in the field." In May it was transferred to Bermuda Hundred, Va., and on the 10th of that month participated in the battle of Chester Station, and from that time until the 17th was engaged with the enemy near Bermuda Hundred, incurring an aggregate loss of one hundred and ninety-six (196) officers and men. On the 2d and 17th of June it was again engaged near Bermuda Hundred, losing one hundred and twenty-four (124) men.

August 14th and 15th was fought the battle of Deep Bottom, Va., and on the 18th that of Deep Run, Va., in both of which battles the Seventh bore a prominent part.

EIGHTH REGIMENT INFANTRY.

THE Eighth Regiment Connecticut Volunteers was recruited at Camp Buckingham, Hartford, and left for Annapolis October 17th, 1861, and formed a part of Gen. Burnside's division.

The regiment was commanded by Col. Edward Harland, formerly Captain in the Third regiment. It was armed with the rifle musket, and numbered ten hundred and twenty-seven (1,027) men. This regiment was engaged in the battle of Newberne, N. C., March 14th, 1862, and again at the siege of Fort Macon, N. C., April, 1862.

It accompanied General Burnside when he was ordered to join the Army of the Potomac after the series of battles before Richmond, and upon the withdrawal of the army from the Peninsula it followed its fortunes in Maryland, and was engaged in the sanguinary battle of Antietam, Sept. 17, 1862, where it suffered severely: losing in killed, 1 commissioned officer, 33 enlisted men; wounded, 10 commissioned officers, 129 enlisted men; missing, 21 enlisted men; total loss, 194.

The commissioned officer mentioned as killed was Lieutenant Marvin Wait of Norwich. The gallantry displayed by this young man, from the time he entered the service till he received his death wound on the battle-field of Antietam, calls for something more than a passing word of tribute to his memory; and if the writer now deviates from a course he felt obliged to pursue in preparing "the brief summary" called for by the Legislature which directed the preparation of this Catalogue, he trusts no one will cavil thereat after reading the brilliant record of this youth, than whom no one of all the brave Connecticut youth who were "foremost in the fray" in the late rebellion, deserves more especial mention.

It is the record of a boy of 19, adorned with talents of no mean order; of a student, gifted with a vigorous mind, improved by foreign study and travel; of a son, the joy and pride of parents who, in common with all who knew him, had "high hopes that burned like stars sublime" for his future usefulness, and for honors in the peaceful pursuits of life; of a young gentleman, surrounded with everything calculated to make hearth-stone life desirable; whose patriotic impulses induced him to leave college and its associations, home and all its attractions, to enter with ardor his country's service, as a private soldier, and by merit rising to promotion, to sacrifice his heroic life upon its altar.

Enlisting as a private in Capt. Ward's Co. D, 8th C. V., he was soon promoted to be Second Lieutenant of Co. A, and served as a member of the Signal Corps at the battle of Roanoke Island on Burnside's flagship, and at the reduction of Fort Macon. Lieut. Andrews, of the Signal Corps, in his report of that action, speaks in terms of high commendation of the services of Lieut. Wait in directing the fire of our batteries. He says: "Owing to the observations made by Lieut. Wait and myself, and signalled to them from time to time, an accurate range was obtained by all the batteries, and was not lost during the day. After 12 M. every shot fired from our batteries fell in or on the Fort. At 4 o'clock P. M. a white flag appeared on the Fort. The proposition to surrender, and the reply, with terms of capitulation, were sent to and from General Burnside, through this station, by Lieutenant Wait and myself." Major Mayer, chief of the Signal department, presented Lieut. W. with a beautiful battle flag as a recognition of his valuable services on that occasion.

Lieut. Wait served under Burnside during his whole campaign in North Carolina, "winning everywhere the good opinion of his comrades and the praise of his superior officers." Soon after the reduction of Fort Macon he was commissioned as First Lieutenant, and wishing more active service than that of a signal officer, he rejoined his regiment at Fredericksburg, just before it evacuated that place. As a biographer records, "he was ever found with his company at the post of duty, and of danger in the arduous and eventful campaign in Maryland." "During the terrible and mighty conflict at Antietam," the same biographer writes, "his courage, valor and patriotism reached their sad but sublime consummation." One of his brother officers, writing soon after the battle, says: "If Lieut. Wait had only left the battle of his own accord when first wounded in the arm, all would have been well, but he bravely stood to encourage his men still further by his own example, and at last nobly fell pierced by bullet after bullet." Another officer wrote as follows: "When first wounded he was advised to leave, but would not, and before leaving received three shots." And another officer writes that he "fell at his post while urging on his men in that terrible storm of shot and shell." A writer in one of the public journals of Norwich, speaking of Lieut. Wait's conduct at the battle of Antietam, says, "after his sword-arm had been disabled by a shot, he took his weapon in his left hand, and still pressed on, encouraging his men by his heroic fortitude." Lossing and Abbott in their Histories of the Rebellion, and also the publisher of the "Connecticut War Record," add their testimony to the ability, patriotism, and bravery of Lieut. Wait. In fitting words does the biographer conclude: "A braver man than Marvin Wait never confronted a foe; a more generous heart never beat; a more unselfish patriot never fell. Connecticut may well cherish and honor the memory of such sons."

December 11th and 13th the regiment was again engaged at Fredericksburg, Va., but fortunately sustained a small loss. In February, 1863, it was transferred to South-east Virginia, where it remained until its muster-out. Col. Harland having been promoted to be Brigadier General, the command of the regiment devolved upon Lieut. Col. John E. Ward, who was promoted Colonel April 2d, 1863.

The regiment participated in the battle of Fort Huger, Va., April 11th and 19th. On the 11th of January, 1864, it returned to Connecticut on veteran furlough, three hundred and ten (310) of its original members having re-enlisted as veterans. It returned from veteran furlough to its old camp near Portsmouth, Va., March 1st, 1864. March 13th it was ordered to Deep Creek, Va., where it remained, performing outpost and picket duty, until April 13th, when it shared in the reconnoissance toward Suffolk, returning on the 14th. On the 7th of May following, the regiment participated in the battle of Walthall Junction, Va., and sustained an aggregate loss of seventy-four (74) officers and men. The regiment was complimented by its Brigade Commander, the lamented General Burnham, for heroism that day; and as it returned from the field was cheered by the whole brigade. Major Pratt in his official report to Adjutant General Morse, dated March 1st, 1865, says of the 8th, that "it earned its laurels dearly." First Lieuts. Bingham, Co. G, Goddard, Co. B, were both mortally wounded; Col. John E. Ward was severely bruised by a shell; Capt. James R. Moore, Co. D, was disabled, for life; 2d Lieut. John H. Vorra, Co. K, was severely wounded."

From May 9th to 12th the regiment was engaged in reconnoissance, and from the 12th to the 16th of May, 1864, it was engaged in battle at Fort Darling, and on the night of the 16th it retired within the fortifications, completely exhausted and worn down with their arduous labors; for eight days out of ten it had been in the front, and sustained an aggregate loss of one hundred and forty (140), or nearly one-third of its whole fighting strength.

From June 1st to June 10th it was engaged with the enemy at Cold Harbor, sustaining a loss of forty in killed and wounded. Again, from the 15th to the 17th, it was engaged in battle near Petersburg, and sustained an aggregate loss of twenty-nine (29). June 21st the regiment marched back in front of Petersburg, entered the trenches, and shared in the monotonous siege work until August 27th, suffering in the meantime twenty-eight (28) casualties, among them the death of Capt. H. C. Hall, Co. F, and the wounding of Capts. E. F. Goodrich, Co. H, and Roger M. Ford, Co. G.

On the 10th of August fifty-six (56) recruits had reported to the regiment, and from the 27th of that month until the 28th of Sept. the regiment lay encamped on the south side of the James river, behind the fortifications, picketing a portion of the Bermuda Hundred front. At dawn on the 29th, the army advanced toward "Battery Harrison." The Eighth furnished two companies of skirmishers, while the balance of the regiment headed the storming column. The regiment sustained a loss of seventy-three (73) officers and men, and of its conduct on that occasion the report of Major Pratt speaks in glowing terms. Among the wounded were Lieut. Col. M. B. Smith, 1st Lieut. Samuel S. Foss, acting Adjutant, Capt. Wm. J. Roberts, Co. I, Lieuts. John A. Rathburn, Co. E, and Amos L. Keables, Co. D, all of whom with the exception of Lieut. Keables, were totally unfitted for service, and were discharged. Among the lamented dead were Lieut. Charles N. Irwin, whose term of service had expired, but who would not ask exemption from danger; Lieut. James B. Kilbourn and Sergt. Seth F. Plumb, who had been commissioned but not mustered. This was the last general engagement of the regiment, which was mustered out on the 12th of Dec., 1865.

That the Eighth Connecticut fully sustained the reputation of Connecticut soldiers for daring, bravery, and fidelity, will never be questioned. The following were some of its principal

NINTH REGIMENT INFANTRY.

THE Ninth Regiment Connecticut Volunteers was organized in September, 1861, as an Irish Regiment. It was recruited at Camp English, New Haven, and was commanded by Col. Thomas W. Cahill, who was for a long time connected with the State Volunteer Militia, and was an able, efficient and popular officer. Lieut. Col. Fitzgibbons and Major Frye were captains in the 1st and 3d Regiments respectively, and took an active part in the memorable battle of July 21st, 1861, at Bull Run.

The regiment left the State for Lowell, Mass., on the 4th of November, and on the 21st embarked from Boston in the steamer Constitution, for Ship Island, Mississippi Sound; it numbered eight hundred and forty-five (845) men.

During the battle of Baton Rouge, La., Gen. Williams, commanding the forces, was killed, and the command devolved upon Col. Cahill, leaving Lieut. Col. Fitzgibbons in command of the regiment. In his official report of this battle, the commanding officer speaks of the conduct of the officers and men of the 9th Connecticut as deserving great credit for their coolness and bravery. Owing to the inaccuracy of the enemy's aim, and especially their over-shooting, the casualties were much lighter than might have been expected in so severe an engagement. On the 24th of June, 1863, the regiment participated in the battle of Chackaloo Station, La., and were again fortunate in sustaining only a small loss in wounded.

In April, 1864, the regiment returned to Connecticut on veteran furlough, over three hundred (300) of the original men having re-enlisted as veterans. It remained in the State until July 16th, when it proceeded to New York, thence by steamer to Bermuda Hundred, Va., where it arrived July 20th, and remained until the 28th of that month. It was then ordered to Deep Bottom, and participated in a demonstration against the enemy; loss not reported.

It returned to Bermuda Hundred on the 30th of July, and embarked for Washington, D. C., arriving there on the 1st of August, and on the following day marched to Tenallytown, where it remained until the 14th; on that day it crossed the Potomac at Chain Bridge, and marched via Leesburg and Snicker's Gap to Berrysville, arriving on the 17th, and from that time participated with the army under Gen. Sheridan in the campaign up the Shenandoah Valley.

On the 19th of October, 1864, it took an active part in the battle of Cedar Creek, Va.; its total loss in killed and wounded, according to the official report, was thirty-one (31).

In October, the non-veterans of the regiment were mustered out of the United States service, and the remaining veterans were consolidated into a battalion of four companies, in pursuance of Special Order No. 59, Extract 5, Head-Quarters 19th Army Corps. The battalion remained in Virginia until Jan. 7th, 1865, when they were ordered with their division (the second) to Baltimore, Md. It was there embarked on board U. S. Transport

TENTH REGIMENT INFANTRY.

THE Tenth Regiment Connecticut Volunteers was recruited at Camp Buckingham, Hartford, and left for Annapolis, Md., October 31, 1861.

It was attached to General Burnside's command, and was engaged at the battle of Roanoke Island, on the 8th of February, 1862; and notwithstanding it was the first battle in which it took part, both officers and men exhibited great coolness and sterling bravery.

Colonel Charles L. Russell, the brave and efficient commander, was killed at the head of his regiment, while gallantly leading it to the charge.

Colonel Russell was formerly attached to the Second Regiment, as Adjutant; in which position he demonstrated his fitness for his position, and won the love and esteem of the rank and file by his uniform courtesy and kindness, as well as the confidence and respect of his superior officers, for his military ability.

Lt. Col. Albert W. Drake, succeeded to the command of the regiment, was commissioned as Colonel, February 8, 1862, and died of disease caused by exhaustion, June 5, 1862.

Adjutant General Williams, in his Annual Report, dated April 1, 1863, remarks "that no regiment in the field, has seen more active service, better sustained the reputation of Connecticut troops, or met with greater loss of officers, than the Tenth.

Colonel Ira W. Pettibone, who succeeded Colonel Drake, was compelled by ill-health, to resign; and was in turn succeeded by Major John L. Otis, as commander.

On the 14th of March, 1862, the regiment was again in battle at Newbern, N. C., and met with a loss of twenty-three (23) killed and wounded. Again on the 14th of December, it participated in the battle of Kinston, N. C., and met with a total loss of one hundred and six (106) officers and men.

Lieut. Colonel Leggett, in his official report of the battle, states that the regiment captured at one time, more than fifty of the enemy. On the 16th of December, it was engaged in the battle of Whitehall, N. C., loss not reported.

After the battle of Seabrook Island, S. C., March 28, 1863, the regiment was engaged in the usual routine incident to field life, until the Siege of Charleston, S. C., from July 28th to October 25th, 1863.

In December following it took an active part in the battle of St. Augustine, Fla., with a total loss of twenty-two (22) men.

On the 18th of April, 1864, it proceeded to Hilton Head, S. C., thence by transport to Fort Monroe, Va., and were disembarked at Gloucester Point, where it was joined by the re-enlisted veterans who had returned from veteran furlough.

At this time, the camp and garrison equipage of the regiment, together with the regimental and company records, were ordered stored at Norfolk, Va.; but while on board transport, were sunk, and became a total and irreparable loss.

On the 7th of May, the regiment was again in action at Walthall Junction, Va., and from the 13th to the 17th, inclusive, participated in the battle of Drury's Bluff, when they were called upon to support the 1st Connecticut Light Battery, which was ordered to take up its position on the left of the regiment, in order that it might be more secure from the enemy's sharpshooters.

In his official report of this battle, Colonel Plaisted, commanding the Brigade, speaks of the Tenth Connecticut, as follows: "Of the Tenth, I need hardly say more, than that it fully sustained the splendid reputation it has hitherto borne; for steady and soldierly behavior, under the most trying circumstances too, entirely new to them, (for never before were their backs turned to the enemy,) it may have been equaled, but never surpassed. Under a fire in which eighteen men fell from the left of the regiment in almost as many seconds, not a soldier spoke a word, or moved a heel from the alignment. Too much credit cannot be accorded to Colonel Otis, for his self possession under such a fire, and the skillful manner in which he handled his regiment."

The space allotted to a Summary, in this work, will not permit of a detailed account of each separate engagement, in which the regiment participated, and to chronicle in detail, the many battles and the active service of the Tenth Connecticut, would require a volume of itself.

The regiment continued in service in Virginia, until its final muster-out, August 25, 1865, and participated in no less than fourteen engagements, between June 16, 1864, and the Spring of 1865. To say that throughout the whole time, it sustained its reputation for bravery and heroic endurance, would be but faint praise for the gallant deeds performed; and the pen of the historian will find ample material for its exercise, in portraying the deeds of this regiment.

Originally, the Regiment numbered nine hundred and ninety-six (996) men; the number of recruits borne on its rolls is eight hundred and forty-eight (848,) and the number of re-enlisted veterans, was two hundred and eighty (280); making a total of two thousand one hundred and twenty-four (2,124) men credited to the organization.

ELEVENTH REGIMENT INFANTRY.

THE Eleventh Regiment Conn. Volunteers was recruited at Camp Lincoln, Hartford, and left that place for Annapolis, December 16th, 1861, under the command of Col. Thomas H. C. Kingsbury. It was assigned to Gen. Burnside's Division, making the third Connecticut regiment furnished to that Division, and was called into battle at Newbern, N. C., March 14th, 1862, with a loss in killed of one commissioned officer and five enlisted men; wounded not reported.

The regiment was attached to the Army of the Potomac in July, 1862, and participated in the battle of South Mountain, Md., Sept. 14th, 1862. Upon the resignation of Col. Thomas H. C. Kingsbury, March 26th, 1862, Lieut. Henry W. Kingsbury, of the U. S. Army, was appointed to the command.

On the 17th of September, 1862, the regiment took an active part in the battle of Sharpsburg (Antietam), Md., and sustained a total loss of one hundred and eighty-one (181) killed, wounded and missing. Among the killed was Col. Kingsbury, and among the wounded were Lieut. Col. Stedman and Major Moegling, both seriously. Col. Kingsbury was a brave officer, and died while fighting nobly, regretted by all who had enjoyed the pleasure of his acquaintance.

Lt.-Col. Stedman succeeded to the command of the regiment, and with his command proceeded to Fredericksburg, Va., on the 12th of December, 1862, and being stationed on the picket line, were not actively engaged in the battle of the 13th, although it met with a loss of ten men missing and one wounded.

During the year of 1863, the regiment remained in the Department of Virginia, but participated in no important engagements.

At the siege of Suffolk, from the 11th of April until the 3d of May, it was on constant and active duty in the defense of that place; on the 24th of April it took part in the reconnaissance under command of Brigadier General Corcoran, and sustained a loss of one man killed and one wounded. On the 4th of May following it was again engaged in reconnaissance, and sustained a loss of four, among the number, one commissioned officer.

Early in March, 1864, the regiment returned from veteran furlough to Portsmouth, marched to Williamsburg and encamped, and constituted at that time the force nearest Richmond on the Peninsula. Here large additions were made to its ranks, and the regiment numbered eight hundred and eighty-two (882) enlisted men present. On the 9th of May it was engaged in the battle of Swift's Creek. Advancing again to the Petersburg and Richmond pike, on the 12th, it fought its way in line of battle on the right of the road, past the Half-way House, and participated in the battle of Drury's Bluff, May 16th, when under a flank fire it fell back with great loss from a position well nigh fortified with rebel dead. The battle was followed by the regiment being detailed for the building of earthworks at the Bermuda Hundred front.

On the 28th of May it proceeded to City Point, and thence by transports to White House, and upon its arrival on the night of the 30th, marched to New Castle. June 1st, the 18th Corps joined the Army of the Potomac, and began fighting at Cold Harbor, Va., the same evening, and on the 3d of June the regiment was engaged in the charge at Cold Harbor, and sustained a total loss of ninety-one (91) officers and men. Among the killed was Major Converse, who was at the time acting Asst. Inspector General on the staff of Gen. Martindale. Capt. Allen was severely wounded, and died on the 6th of July, at Washington. Adjutant Barnum, who was wounded in the same charge, died in Washington, June 15th.

On the 5th of August, Col. Stedman's brigade was called to the front line, and although long unwell from continued exposure in the field, the Colonel was in command. He was struck by a random shot in the side, which proved to be mortal, and on the following morning, at 7 o'clock, that most heroic, gallant and patriotic officer died. Col. Stedman was honored, loved and respected in life, and sincerely mourned in death.

The regiment continued in active service in front of Petersburg, Va., from June 15th, 1864, to August 27th, 1864, and reported a total loss of eighty-five (85) officers and men. From that time until its final muster-out, December 21st, 1865, it continued to serve in the Department of Virginia.

The whole number of men credited to this regiment during its term of service was nearly two thousand four hundred (2400).

TWELFTH REGIMENT INFANTRY.

THE Twelfth Regiment Connecticut Volunteers was recruited at Camp Lyon, Hartford, early in the year 1862, and left for Ship Island, Mississippi Sound, February 24th, 1862, with ten hundred and eight (1008) men. This fine regiment was known as the "Charter Oak Regiment;" was commanded by Colonel Henry C. Deming, and was attached to Major General Benjamin F. Butler's Division. The men were armed with Sharps' and Windsor rifles.

The regiment was stationed in or near New Orleans, as a portion of the army of the Department of the Gulf, during the year 1862, and a part of 1863. Colonel Henry C. Deming was for the greater part of the time engaged in performing the duties of a civic officer, in consequence of which the command devolved upon Lieut. Colonel Ledyard Colburn. On the 31st of January, 1863, Colonel Deming resigned, and Lieut. Colonel Colburn was promoted to the Colonelcy.

On the 27th of October, 1862, the regiment participated in the battle of Georgia Landing, near Labadierville, La., and sustained a loss of nineteen (19) men in killed, wounded and missing.

On the 27th of March, 1863, Company "A," thirty-five men, embarked on board the gunboat Diana, in connection with one company from the 160th New York, to make a reconnoissance into Grand Lake to the mouth of the Teche. Returning through Atchafalaya, they were fired upon near Pattersonville, and after a severe fight of an hour, were all captured. They are reported to have fought with the greatest gallantry, and only surrendered when surrounded by greatly superior numbers, after the boat had been disabled.

On the 9th of April following, the regiment started on an expedition against the enemy, and left Brashear City for Berwick, where it remained until the 11th, when it marched to a point one mile above Pattersonville. On the 13th, soon after daylight the regiment was formed in support of the 21st Indiana Battery, which opened upon the enemy's fortifications and gunboat "Diana," which had taken position upon the left.

After the silencing and withdrawal of the "Diana," the regiment was advanced to the front of the enemy's works, and successively during the day supported Carruth's, Mack's, Duryea's and Bainbridge's batteries. Companies E, F, and G, were advanced as skirmishers, and approached to speaking distance of the enemy's entrenchments, and were actively engaged during the whole afternoon, with very apparent effect. The object of the expedition being gained, the regiment was marched to Opelousas, where it arrived on the evening of the 20th.

Lieut. Colonel Peck speaks in the highest terms of the conduct of the regiment as a whole, and mentions the names of Major George N. Lewis, and Captains Granniss and Brennan, as deserving of great praise.

The regiment continued in the Department of the Gulf, attached to the army under General Banks in Louisiana, and bore a conspicuous part in the siege of Port Hudson. It was engaged in that siege from May 25th to July 9th, 1863, and sustained an aggregate loss of one hundred and eight (108) officers and men.

In closing his report of the siege of Port Hudson, Lieut. Colonel Peck writes: "On the night of the 8th of July, for the first time since we advanced to the front, we were permitted to sleep without an uninterrupted accompaniment of artillery and musketry. On the 9th, with martial music and flying colors, we marched into Port Hudson."

In the Spring of 1864, more than three-quarters of the regiment re-enlisted as veterans, and returned to Connecticut on furlough. On the 8th of May, it returned to New Orleans, La., and remained in that vicinity until July 6th, 1864, when it embarked for Fort Monroe, Va., and finally, on the 7th of August, joined the army under General Sheridan, in the Shenandoah Valley. At the battle of Opequan (Winchester), September 19th, 1864, the regiment lost seventy-one (71) officers and men, killed and wounded; among them Lieut. Colonel Frank H. Peck, commanding, who was struck by a piece of shell and mortally wounded, while gallantly leading the regiment into action; also there were killed 1st Lieutenants William S. Buckley and George W. Steadman, brave and efficient officers.

On the 22d of September was fought the battle of Fisher's Hill, and although the Twelfth occupied a more important position throughout the engagement, it most happily sustained no loss.

On the 15th of October, Lieut. Colonel George N. Lewis (promoted from Major, vice Peck killed in action) reported for duty, who until that time had been absent in Connecticut, from the effect of a wound received at Port Hudson, in May, 1863, and assumed the command.

The regiment, under Colonel Lewis, participated in the battle of Cedar Creek, Va., and sustained a total loss of one hundred and seventy (170) officers and men. It was in this engagement that Captain John P. Lowell and 2d Lieutenants Horace E. Phelps and George M. Benton, received their death wounds, the two former dying on the field, the latter a few days later in hospital. All are mentioned as brave and meritorious officers, who were loved and respected by their comrades.

The severe losses sustained by the command, and the near expiration of the term of service of such as did not re-enlist, necessitated the consolidation of the regiment. And accordingly, under provision of Special Order No. 45, Head Quarters, Middle Military Division, of November 26th, 1864, the 12th Battalion Connecticut Vet. Vol. Infantry was organized, and continued to serve in Virginia, under the command of Lieut. Colonel Lewis, until its final muster-out, August 12th, 1865.

In January and February, 1864, four hundred and thirty-six (436) men re-enlisted as veterans for a term of three years, and subsequent to the organization of the regiment about four hundred (400) new recruits joined its ranks.

The regiment participated in the following general

THIRTEENTH REGIMENT INFANTRY.

THE Thirteenth Regiment Connecticut Volunteer Infantry was organized at New Haven, Conn., from November 25th, 1861, to January 7th, 1862, and left for Ship Island, Miss., on the 17th of March, 1862, numbering ten hundred and seventeen (1017) officers and men. All the field officers had seen active service—Col. Birge as Major of the Fourth Regiment, Lieut.-Col. Warner as Major, and Major Holcomb as Quartermaster of the Third Regiment.

The regiment participated in the battle of Georgia Landing, La., on the 27th of October, 1862; loss not reported.

During the winter of 1862-3 it was engaged in reconnoissance, and the routine life incident to its position. On the 14th of April, 1863, it took an active part in the battle of Irish Bend, La. It was in this battle that the regiment captured an embroidered rebel flag bearing the inscription: "The Ladies of Franklin to the St. Mary's Cannoniers." Lieut.-Col. Warner, in his official report of the battle, speaks in the highest terms of the conduct of both officers and men, and mentions as especially worthy of praise, their charge upon the enemy's battery. The total loss during the engagement was fifty-three (53) in killed and wounded.

On the 24th of May following, the regiment was engaged in battle at Port Hudson, and on the 14th of June was again engaged with the enemy at the same place, with an aggregate loss of twenty-two (22) men.

On the 18th of March, 1864, after having been stationed at Thibodeaux, La., for a period of six months, the regiment received marching orders; and moved by rail the next day to Algiers, whence it embarked on the 25th on steamer, and proceeded up the Mississippi and Red Rivers, to take part in the Red River expedition.

On the 11th of April, it again embarked, with other regiments, under command of Gen. Birge, and proceeded to join the main army, which had met with a repulse at Sabine Cross Roads, and which, after the battle of Pleasant Hill, had fallen back to Grand Ecore. At 6 P. M. of the 21st, the march commenced down the river, and on the 23d the regiment was engaged in the battle of Cane River, fording the stream in water waist deep, and skirmishing through woods and swamps, over creeks and bluffs, and charging the enemy in his entrenchments. In this engagement it lost three (3) killed and twenty-one (21) wounded, three of the latter mortally. Capt. Cornwall's mounted detachment of the 13th suffered severely, twelve (12) out of the eighteen (18) present being either killed or wounded. On the 11th of May the regiment, together with the whole army, commenced the march down the bank of the river, in company with the fleet of gunboats and transports. On the 16th the enemy was encountered in position at Mansura Plain, but after a fight of two or three hours he withdrew. This proved to be the last engagement for the 13th in that section.

On the 14th of July, the veterans and non-veterans embarked, under sealed orders, on the steamer Columbia. The orders, when opened, directed it to proceed to Fortress Monroe, leave the non-veterans, and then proceed to Hartford for veteran furlough, where it arrived on the 27th.

On the 29th of August it departed, upon its return, for Washington, where it arrived on the 31st, and received orders to proceed to Harper's Ferry. It left for that place on the afternoon of September 2d, and subsequently joined the main army at Berryville.

On the 18th, the whole army being under marching orders, the regiment broke camp and commenced the advance which next day brought on the battle of Winchester, in which the regiment took an active part, sustaining an aggregate loss of seventy-nine (79). Following up the routed enemy, he was again confronted in the strong position of Fisher's Hill. On the morning of the 22d the regiment was engaged in throwing up breastworks near the rebel picket lines, exposed to a murderous fire from the enemy's sharpshooters. About 4 P. M. of the same day an attack was made upon the enemy which was entirely successful, and the 13th was engaged during the night and the following day in pursuit of the flying foe.

On the 19th of October it was again engaged with the enemy at the battle of Cedar Creek, in which it lost twenty-eight (28) officers and men. The complete overthrow of Early's army left all quiet in the Shenandoah valley.

On the 23d of December the non-veterans left for New Haven to be mustered out; the veterans and recruits were consolidated into a battalion, and after a series of marches and details for different duties, the battalion proceeded to Savannah, Ga., where they arrived on the evening of January 19, 1865, and continued to serve in that vicinity (the various companies being scattered over considerable territory, acting as Provost Guard), until their muster-out at Fort Pulaski, Ga., on the 25th of April, 1866, by Brevet Major J. Hartwell Butler, U. S. A. The battalion did not re-enter the State as an organization, but received final pay and was disbanded on the 4th of May, 1865, at Hart's Island, New York Harbor.

FOURTEENTH REGIMENT INFANTRY.

THE Fourteenth Regiment Connecticut Volunteers was organized in the summer of 1862, and was the first regiment organized under the call for three hundred thousand men. It was recruited from the State at large, and left for Washington, D. C., August 25, 1862, its numerical strength being ten hundred and fifteen (1,015).

Owing to the raid of the enemy into Maryland, the regiment, without being allowed time to receive the necessary instruction, was ordered forward and took a part in the hard fought battle of Antietam.

The official report shows that the regiment suffered severe losses in that desperate battle. Its loss in killed being 2 commissioned officers, and 19 enlisted men; wounded, 2 commissioned officers, and 86 enlisted men; missing, 28 enlisted men; making an aggregate loss of one hundred and thirty-seven (137).

It was also engaged in the battle of Fredericksburg, when Lieut.-Colonel Perkins and Major Clark were severely wounded. Many other valuable officers and many of the men were either killed or wounded.

In fact, from the heavy losses and hardships endured by the regiment, it had become terribly reduced, and numbered scarcely three hundred and seventy-five (375) effective men. Its aggregate loss at Fredericksburg was one hundred and twenty-two (122).

The regiment continued with the Army of the Potomac during the winter, and on the 1st of April, 1863, was encamped at Falmouth; on the 28th it received marching orders, and proceeded with the Second Army Corps to near Bank's Ford, on the Rappahannock, which they crossed on the evening of the 30th of April, and proceeded to camp near Chancellorsville. On the 1st, 2d and 3d of May they were actively engaged with the enemy, and sustained a loss during the engagement of fifty-six (56). Major Theodore G. Ellis, commanding regiment, states in his official report, that the strength of his command on the morning of the 3d was 219.

The regiment was again in battle at Gettysburg, Pa., July 2d and 3d, and sustained an aggregate loss of sixty-six (66). Major Ellis speaks of the action of the regiment in this battle in the highest terms, mentioning the capture of five regimental battle flags and over forty prisoners, by a portion of his command which charged the enemy. Four of the rebel officers surrendered themselves personally to Major Ellis. This was one of the most trying battles in which the Fourteenth was engaged.

July 14th it was engaged with the enemy at Falling Waters, and again on the 14th of October at Auburn, Va., loss not reported. On the latter named day it was also engaged at Bristol Station, and sustained a total loss of twenty-six (26) in killed, wounded and missing.

On the 17th of October it engaged the enemy at Blackburn's Ford, and on the 29th of November following at Mine Run, Va., and met with a loss of fourteen (14) in wounded and captured. On the 2d of December the regiment returned to its old camp upon Mountain Run, accomplishing a march of forty-five miles during the 24 hours.

The first general engagement in which the regiment participated after the close of winter, was that of Morton's Ford, Va., Feb. 6, 1864. This engagement is described by Lieut.-Colonel Moore, as being in some instances a hand to hand fight, some of the Fourteenth using the bayonet upon the enemy. It sustained a loss of one hundred and fifteen (115) in killed, wounded and missing.

It would seem that the Fourteenth was kept busy during the spring and summer of 1864, as the list of battles during that time exhibit great activity.

From May 5, 1864, to August 25th, the regiment was engaged in the battles of Wilderness, Laurel Hill, Spottsylvania, May 12th, 13th, 14th, 18th and 22d, North Anna River, Tolopotomay, Cold Harbor, June 3d and 6th, Petersburg, June 11th to July 6th, Deep Bottom and Ream's Station, Va., and sustained a total of two hundred and fifty-six (256) casualties.

Colonel Ellis remarks in his report, that the fatigue and exposure incident to the night marches and continued encounters with the enemy were extraordinary, notwithstanding which, both officers and men met them nobly and uncomplainingly, cheerfully bearing all the hardships they had been called upon to endure.

Lieut.-Col. Moore, Maj. Coit, and Adjutant Hicks are mentioned as deserving of special mention for their gallantry in the various actions in which the regiment was engaged.

Lieut.-Colonel Moore, in his report of the battle of Ream's Station, remarks: "I cannot close this report without alluding to the loss this regiment has sustained in the death of Capt. William H. Hawley of Company K. At the time of his death he filled the office of brigade inspector, and was actively engaged upon the staff of the Colonel commanding the brigade.
* * * * His loss is deeply felt, not only in this regiment, but throughout the entire brigade."

On the 27th of October, the regiment participated in the action of Boydton Plank Road; total loss, twenty-nine (29). Lieutenant Perkins Bartholomew of Co. I, was wounded during the engagement, and soon after died. He is spoken of by Lieut.-Colonel Moore as being one of the most promising young officers in the regiment.

On the 5th of February, 1865, the regiment was again in battle at Hatcher's Run, Va., and sustained the loss of Lieutenant Franklin Bartlett killed and five wounded.

As a closing scene in the drama, the regiment was present at the battles of High Bridge and Farmville, Va., and were also present at the surrender of the insurgent army under General Robert E. Lee, thus being permitted to see the desired end accomplished for which they had so loyally struggled.

On the 31st of May, 1865, the brave Fourteenth Connecticut was mustered out of the United States service, leaving a record of which they may well be proud.

Since the organization of the regiment, six hundred and ninety-seven (697) substitutes and volunteer recruits have been added to its ranks, making, with the original one thousand and fifteen (1,015), a total of one thousand, seven hundred and twenty-six (1,726) who have served under its banner. At the date of muster-out, it mustered two hundred and thirty-four (234) officers and men present and absent.

FIFTEENTH REGIMENT INFANTRY.

THE Fifteenth Regiment Connecticut Volunteer Infantry was recruited at New Haven, Conn., during the month of August, 1862, and rendezvoused at that city. It left for Washington, D. C., under the command of Colonel Dexter R. Wright, August 28, 1862, and numbered one thousand and twenty-two (1,022) officers and men.

On the 17th of February, 1863, Colonel Wright resigned his position by reason of disability, and the command of the regiment devolved upon Lt.-Col. Samuel Tolles. The first general engagement in which the regiment participated was at the battle of Fredericksburg, Va., December 13, 1862, with a total loss of ten (10).

On the 6th of April, 1863, Colonel Charles L. Upham was appointed to the command of this regiment, vice Wright, resigned.

During the month of April it was stationed at Suffolk, Va., as part of the force at that place during the siege by Longstreet, and was engaged in two reconnoissances during the siege. In the first, on the Edenton Road, April 24th, it acted as a support to the skirmishers, and sustained a loss of four (4) of its number. Again on the 3d of May following it was engaged with the enemy on Providence Church Road, and met with the loss of six (6) men in killed, wounded and missing.

The regiment was also included in the expedition of General Dix up the Peninsula in July, and performed some extremely arduous marches.

It was engaged during the greater part of the fall and winter in working upon the fortifications near Norfolk, Va.

On the 24th of January, 1864, it left Portsmouth, Va., for Plymouth, N. C. While there, three companies under command of Major Osborn, with a detachment of the 16th Conn. Vols., and a few other troops, were sent on a night expedition to the neighborhood of Colraine, N. C., where they succeeded in destroying a large amount of commissary stores belonging to the enemy.

Another force, sent out under command of Lieut.-Colonel Tolles, attacked the camp of a detachment of the 62d Georgia Cavalry, capturing and destroying their camp equipage, stores, &c.

At the time of the demonstration of the enemy upon Newbern, the regiment was ordered to that place.

A summary of the operations of the regiment from that time until its muster-out is contained in the following report from Colonel Upham :

WEST MERIDEN, CONN., Jan. 6, 1866.

BRIGADIER GENERAL H. J. MORSE,

Adjutant-General State of Connecticut.

GENERAL:—In compliance with request from Adjutant-General's Office, I have the honor to submit the following report of the operations of the 15th Regiment Conn. Vols., from March 1, 1865, to their muster-out:

March 2, 1865, this regiment was ordered to join the forces marching against Goldsboro, N. C., and was assigned to the 2d Brigade, 2d Division, District of Beaufort.

On the afternoon of the 7th, our skirmishers engaged the enemy at Jackson's Mills, and entrenched themselves during the night within a hundred yards of their works. About noon of the 8th, while briskly engaged, the regiment was enveloped by a division of the enemy who had gained their rear, and a large portion of the regiment made prisoners.

Upon the occupation of Kinston by our forces, the 15th Conn. was left as a part of its garrison, and was assigned to Provost duty, which duty it did until the rebel armies having surrendered or disbanded, it was on the 6th of June ordered to Newbern to prepare for muster-out.

By order of General Schofield, commanding Department, all men whose term of service did not expire before September 30th, were transferred to the 7th Conn. Vols., June 24th.

The regiment was mustered out June 27, 1865. Transportation was furnished on the 30th, and the regiment arrived in New Haven, Conn., July 4th.

The final muster out and payment was made July 12, 1865, at which date the 15th Regiment Conn. Vols., ceased to be an organization.

I am, General,

Very Respectfully, Your Ob't Servant,

CHARLES L. UPHAM,

Late Colonel 15th Conn. Vol. Infantry.

Since its organization five hundred and ninety-five (595) recruits have joined its ranks from the State at large, making the aggregate number of men forwarded to it one thousand, six hundred and seventeen (1,617). On the 27th of June, 1865, eight hundred and fifteen (815) officers and men (those who had been mustered in previous to October 1, 1862), were mustered out of service, and the recruits remaining were transferred to the 7th Conn. Vols.

It took part in the following

SIXTEENTH REGIMENT INFANTRY.

THE Sixteenth Regiment Connecticut Volunteers was recruited in Hartford County in the month of August, 1862.

The regiment, under command of Colonel Frank Beach, left for Washington, D. C., on the 29th of August, 1862.

Without having time allowed to learn even the rudiments of military science, it was hurried forward and was in regimental line for the first time on the battle field of Antietam.

Although thus suddenly thrown into the vortex of battle, the men preserved a coolness and displayed a courage highly creditable, and sufficiently well attested by the severe loss which they sustained.

Among the wounded in this battle were Lieut.-Colonel Frank Cheney, and Major George A. Washburn, both of whom, in consequence of the severity of their wounds, were compelled to resign their commissions.

Colonel Beach, in his report dated Sept. 19, 1862, remarks that "the enemy commenced shelling us at daylight, and we were kept under a heavy artillery fire at intervals during the day, until about 5 o'clock, when we were brought against the extreme right of the rebel infantry." That the Sixteenth did nobly, is the verdict of all who witnessed its heroism on the battle field of Antietam. Its aggregate loss in killed and wounded was one hundred and eighty-five (185).

The following extract from the report of Adjutant John H. Burnham, will explain the position of the regiment at Fredericksburg, Va., during the battle December 12th, 13th, and 14th, 1862.

* * * * *

"I have the honor to report that in the recent operations at Fredericksburg, the 16th Regiment, though several times under fire, was not actively engaged with the enemy, and met with but slight loss—one man—Isaac Hamilton, of Co. I, slightly wounded by the concussion of a solid shot, since recovered, George Creighton, Co. G, missing."

* * * * *

The Sixteenth was with the other regiments of the Connecticut Brigade at Suffolk, Va., during the investment of that place by the enemy.

On the 24th of April, 1863, the regiment took part in the reconnoissance on the Edenton Road, and after a slight skirmish with the enemy, in which it took five prisoners, returned to the defences. It lost in killed one enlisted man, wounded seven enlisted men. Again on the 3d of May, it participated in the battle of Providence Church Road, occupying the extreme right of the line, and sustained a total loss of ten (10) in killed and wounded.

On the 16th of June it moved to Portsmouth, and on the 22d of that month was engaged in the expedition of General Dix up the Peninsula. It did not encounter the enemy, but the marching was reported the most severe of any campaign in which the regiment had engaged.

On the 14th of July it returned to Portsmouth, and there remained until the 21st of January, engaged in building fortifications and performing picket duty. At the latter date it embarked for Plymouth, N. C. On the 17th of April, 1864, the enemy attacked Plymouth, and continued the assault until the 20th, when the town and all but one fort of the defences having fallen into the hands of the enemy, the place was surrendered by the General commanding. Nearly the whole regiment was captured, and many of its members perished in the rebel prisons at Andersonville, Charleston and Florence. The paroling of prisoners of war began in November, 1864, and continued during the winter; those who had survived the long months of imprisonment were paroled, and after being formally exchanged, joined their regiment at Newbern, N. C., in April and May, 1865. Company "H" was not with the regiment at the surrender of Plymouth, and consequently escaped capture.

This company, with about twenty-five members of other companies, not taken prisoners, were stationed at Roanoke Island, N. C., where they remained until March 4, 1865, when they were ordered to Newbern, N. C. On the 24th of June, 1865, the Sixteenth was mustered out of the service of the United States.

Colonel Burnham, in his report dated the 10th of August, 1864, speaks of the services of his regiment as follows: "While I have reason to express my satisfaction with the conduct of my entire command, I deem it but just to mention Captain Burke, Lieutenant Landon, and Lieutenant Clapp, my Adjutant, as coming under my immediate observation in the performance of especial gallantry."

The regiment participated in the following

SEVENTEENTH REGIMENT INFANTRY.

THE Seventeenth Regiment Connecticut Volunteers was for the most part furnished by Fairfield County, and was recruited and organized during the month of August, 1862. On the third of September, 1862, the regiment left for Washington, one thousand (1,000) strong, under the Command of Colonel William H. Noble, and was attached to the Army of the Potomac.

On the 2d of May, 1863, the regiment was called upon to participate in the battle of Chancellorsville, Va.; that they performed their part in the battle, and fully sustained the reputation of Connecticut troops for bravery and endurance, is clearly exhibited in the long list of casualties reported by the Major commanding.

During the battle the 17th were called upon to use the bayonet freely, and although driven from positions at different times while the fight was in progress, it is clearly set forth in the several official reports, that had all performed their duty with the same degree of bravery and fidelity exhibited by this regiment, the result would have been less disastrous.

Its loss in this engagement was one hundred and twenty (120) officers and men. Among the wounded were Colonel Noble, Captain Hobbie, Co. B, and Lieutenant Blinn, Co. D. Lieut.-Colonel Walter was at first reported missing, but was afterward ascertained to have been killed. Of the missing four (4) were commissioned officers.

The regiment was subsequently engaged in the battle of Gettysburg from July 1st to 4th inclusive. Again it was called upon to give up of its bravest and best. In this battle its aggregate loss was no less than one hundred and ninety-eight (198) officers and men. Among the killed were two (2) commissioned officers, Lieut.-Colonel Douglass Fowler and Captain James E. Moore of Co. C, and eighteen (18) enlisted men. Wounded, four (4) commissioned officers, and seventy-seven (77) enlisted men. Missing, two (2) commissioned officers, and ninety-five (95) enlisted men.

After nearly twelve months of severe service with the Army of the Potomac, the regiment was, in August, 1863, transferred to the Department of the South, and located at Folly Island, S. C.

On the 23d of February, 1864, the regiment sailed from Folly Island to Jacksonville, Fla. During the month of March, it was attached to the 1st Brigade, "Ames' Division," of Gen. Seymour's command, and was occupied in the usual amount of picket and fatigue duty. At the time the troops in that Department were ordered North, the Seventeenth was ordered to St. Augustine, Fla., where it arrived on the 17th of April, and relieved the 10th Conn. Vols. After its arrival, portions of the regiment were at various times engaged in raids from Jacksonville. On the 19th of May, Company B, which composed the picket posts at Welaka and Saunders, on the St. Johns river, were captured by the rebels.

On the 24th of December, Colonel Noble was captured by the enemy while on his return from Jacksonville to St. Augustine.

Lieut.-Colonel Wilcoxson started from St. Augustine on the 3d of February, 1865, upon an expedition for the purpose of procuring some cotton belonging to a rebel Colonel, which was stored near Dunn's Lake, nearly seventy-five (75) miles distant; he succeeded in capturing the cotton, but after marching some seven miles upon his return, was attacked, wounded and taken prisoner. His Adjutant, Lieut. Chatfield, was instantly killed while engaged in a hand to hand encounter with the enemy, and Captains French and Best, with thirty-two (32) of the men were captured.

Col. Wilcoxson and detachment were so suddenly attacked and by such an overwhelming force (about two hundred of the enemy) that they could make but little show of resistance.

Major Allen, in his report dated March 1st, 1865, remarks: "The brave young Chatfield fell shot through and through the body. He was in the act of cutting his way through the rebels when he received his mortal wound. He died as he had lived; a courageous soldier, and an honor to the State and our country."

On the 9th of June the regiment was ordered to rendezvous at Jacksonville, and await the arrival of the detached companies, when it was to proceed to Hilton Head, S. C., for muster-out.

At Hilton Head the regiment went into camp to complete rolls, and were finally mustered out July 9th, 1865.

Thus ended the honorable service of a regiment, the superior of which in intelligence, morale, courage, and endurance, was not found in the army. The Commonwealth of Connecticut will ever cherish the memory of its dead, and honor its living.

EIGHTEENTH REGIMENT INFANTRY.

THE Eighteenth Regiment Connecticut Volunteers was organized in August, 1862, and was recruited from New London and Windham counties, and rendezvoused at Norwich, Conn. It was commanded by Colonel William G. Ely, who was previously connected with the Second and Sixth Regiments Conn. Vols. It left for Washington, August 22d, being the first Regiment to leave the State under the call of the President for 300,000 volunteers in the summer of 1862, and was assigned to the Army of the Potomac.

It performed guard and garrison duty at Baltimore, Md., until May 22, 1863, when it was ordered to the District of West Virginia.

On the 13th, 14th, and 15th of June, it took an active part in the battle of Winchester, Va., and a large proportion of the officers and men were taken prisoners.

Major Peale, in his report of the battle of Winchester, dated Nov. 10, 1863, remarks "that the history of the regiment from May 25th, to the commencement of the action, may be embraced in two words, 'reconnoissance' and 'picket duty;' Winchester being an exposed point, with few advantages of defense, and open to sudden attacks, a large force was required for such purposes, and the regiment had little rest." During the night of the 15th the order was given for the silent evacuation of Winchester.

The 1st and 2d Brigades commenced the retreat under cover of the darkness, but were intercepted by a superior force of the enemy, and at once became engaged; after two charges by the brigades, they were so badly broken that reorganization was impracticable. This regiment was re-formed with great difficulty, and charged the third time alone, but was immediately repulsed, with a loss of some thirty (30) killed and wounded. In the charge Captain Porter was killed and Captains Bates and Bowen severely wounded. Colonel Ely and Lieut.-Colonel Nichols, being dismounted, were captured, while Major Peale, with about thirty (30) men succeeded in making their escape in a body.

Company "D" alone escaped intact, having been detailed a Provost Guard of Winchester, it left that place with the 3d Brigade in charge of some prisoners.

The total loss in this engagement was five hundred and sixty-seven (567). Most of the captured were soon paroled and exchanged, and returned to their regiment, which occupied a position near Harper's Ferry, Va.

Nothing of particular interest transpired until the 26th of April, when the regiment, not including Co. I, was ordered to march to Martinsburg, Va., and join a large force which was being collected there by General Sigel, preparatory to a movement up the Shenandoah Valley.

On the 15th of May, 1864, it participated in the engagement with the enemy at New Market, Va., but were compelled to retreat by reason of the superior strength of the enemy ; it sustained a total loss of fifty-six (56) in killed, wounded and missing. After a few days of recuperation and reorganization, it was again on the march, and on the 5th of June participated in the battle of Piedmont, Va. Major Peale reports that on nearing the main lines of the enemy the regiment was subjected to continuous volleys of musketry which, though considerably depleting their ranks, did not cause their line to waver in the least. After hours of severe fighting the enemy was totally routed, and nearly fifteen hundred (1500) of their number captured, not including the wounded. The day's engagement resulted in a loss to the regiment of one hundred and twenty-two (122) killed and wounded. Among the killed were Adjutant Culver and Lieutenant McGinnis.

June 18th the regiment again encountered the enemy at Lynchburg, Va., and sustained a loss of nine (9) men. The enemy having been largely re-enforced, the command was compelled to fall back, which was commenced on the night of the 18th, during which it marched rapidly, closely followed by the enemy's cavalry, to Liberty, Va., thence to Salem ; from thence across seven ranges of mountains to Newcastle ; thence to Meadow Bluff ; thence to Camp Palt, West Va., on the Kanawha river, arriving on the 3d of July. On this march the sufferings of the men were intense, many having fallen from exhaustion and hunger, were made prisoners by the enemy.

On the 18th of July, 1864, after fording the Shenandoah river, the regiment participated in an engagement with the rebels which invaded Maryland and Pennsylvania during the early part of July, in which engagement it acted well its part and suffered severely, sustaining a loss in killed and wounded of thirty-two (32) officers and men. The enemy outnumbering the Union forces, the command was obliged to recross the river, but on the 24th of July again crossed and attacked the enemy at Winchester, loss not reported.

After a long series of marches, the regiment arrived with the entire command at Berryville, Va., and on the 3d of September were engaged at that place with the enemy ; fortunately the loss was small, only two (2) men wounded.

This closed the list of general engagements in which the Eighteenth took part. It continued to serve in the District of West Virginia until its final muster-out, June 27th, 1865, at Harper's Ferry, Va.

The muster-out rolls of the regiment bear the names of nearly twelve hundred (1200) officers and men.

The Eighteenth participated in the following

TWENTIETH REGIMENT INFANTRY.

THE Twentieth Connecticut Volunteer Infantry was originally recruited in Hartford, New Haven, and Middlesex counties, rendezvoused at New Haven, and started for Washington September 11, 1862, with nine hundred and eighty-one (981) officers and men.

It was assigned to the Army of the Potomac, and was attached to the 2d Brigade, 1st Division, 12th Army Corps.

On the 1st of April, 1863, the regiment was reported at Stafford Court House, Va. It broke camp on the 27th of April, and crossing the Rappahannock river at Kelly's Ford, and the Rapidan at Germania Bridge, participated in the battle of Chancellorsville, May 1st, 2d and 3d, under command of Lieut.-Colonel Wooster, Colonel Ross being absent in command of the 2d Brigade.

The regiment behaved most gallantly during the engagement, and was highly complimented for its bravery. Second Lieutenant David N. Griffith of Co. F, was killed in the entrenchments by a musket shot in the forehead, and fell with his sword in his hand, a pattern of determined courage and bravery. Sergeant-Major John S. Root was killed by a shell at the barricades, in the early part of the action, and was noted for coolness and courage. The total loss of the regiment in this engagement was one hundred and ninety-seven (197) officers and men.

On the 3d of July, 1863, the regiment participated in the battle of Gettysburg, occupying the right of the line, as a part of the 1st Brigade, 1st Division, 12th Army Corps. On the night of the 2d of July, it lay in line of battle in a cornfield ready at an instant's notice. On the morning of the 3d a portion of the regiment was thrown forward as skirmishers, and for over five hours were unceasingly engaged with the enemy. The entire regiment was hotly engaged for more than six hours, and were constantly under arms during the nights of the 3d and 4th.

In his official report, dated August 1, 1863, Lieut.-Colonel Wooster remarks: "Each officer and man then with me seemed intent only on doing his whole duty, cheerfully and promptly executing every order." Total loss during the engagement, twenty-eight (28).

In September, 1863, the regiment was transferred to the Army of the Cumberland, and proceeded by rail via Indianapolis, Louisville, and Nashville, to Bridgeport, Ala., where it arrived Oct. 3d. It was engaged in fatigue and picket duty, and participated in several slight skirmishes with the enemy during the autumn months. January 20, 1864, while a portion of the regiment was guarding Tracy City, Tenn., the place was attacked by rebel cavalry. The enemy were repulsed, and soon retired. Captain Andrew Upson, commanding the Post, was mortally wounded, and died Feb. 19. Private Russell, Co. B, was killed.

The regiment was changed to different localities during the winter and early spring, and on the 15th of May, 1864, took part in the battle of Resaca, Ga. On the 19th of the same month it was engaged with the enemy at Cassville, Ga. Aggregate loss in the two engagements, twenty-one (21) killed, wounded and missing. Colonel Ross, in his report dated May 22, 1864, remarks, "the 20th Connecticut and 19th Michigan regiments, assisted by no other troops in line of battle, with fixed bayonets, assaulted and captured Cassville, and occupied it until the morning of the 20th of May."

The regiment continued its march with Sherman's army, and on the 20th of July participated in the battle of Peach Tree Creek, Ga. Lieut.-Colonel Buckingham, commanding the regiment, characterizes the battle as one of unusual severity, and quotes the language of captured rebel officers, who admitted that it was the most severe battle in which they had ever participated, and that their loss was far greater than ever before during the war. Col. Buckingham also speaks in the highest terms of the action of his command. It lost in this engagement fifty-five (55) in killed, wounded and missing, among the wounded six (6) commissioned officers.

Again on the 21st of July the Twentieth was engaged with the enemy near Atlanta, and sustained a total loss of ten (10) men.

On the 25th of August the regiment marched to Turner's Ferry on the Chattahoochie river; 27th it engaged in a skirmish with the enemy; Sept. 2d it participated in the capture of Atlanta, Ga., in which vicinity it remained, furnishing large details for work on the fortifications about the city, until November 15th, when in conjunction with the left wing, Army of Georgia, it moved toward Savannah, Ga., which it reached on the 10th of December.

It was engaged in various siege operations against that place until the 21st, when the enemy having evacuated the city, the regiment entered with the 20th Corps, and took possession, capturing a large amount of artillery and other ordnance stores, and over 30,000 bales of cotton. On the 4th of January the regiment moved north and went into camp on Hardee's plantation, six miles from Savannah, where it remained until the 16th.

On the 16th it broke camp, and on the 17th marched to Hardeesville, ten miles, where it encamped and remained until the 29th of the same month. The regiment continued its march at intervals, until the 15th of March, when they encountered the enemy at Silver Run, N. C., and after a short engagement drove them from their line of works. The regiment's loss in this engagement was nineteen (19) officers and men.

On the 19th of the same month it participated in the battle of Bentonville, and fully sustained its reputation for courage and valor which it had already established on many a hard fought battle field.

During the campaign the regiment marched more than five hundred miles, destroyed miles of railroad track, built corduroy roads, captured and supplied itself with rations; endured wet, cold, hunger and fatigue without a murmur, and was finally mustered-out of service June 13, 1865, numbering five hundred and six (506) present and absent.

TWENTY-FIRST REGIMENT INFANTRY.

THE Twenty-First was organized in August, 1862. Colonel Arthur H. Dutton was appointed from the regular army, and after having brought the regiment to a high state of efficiency, was transferred to the temporary command of a brigade, leaving Lieut.-Colonel Burpee in command of the regiment.

The regiment was recruited in Hartford, New London, and Windham counties, and went into camp at Norwich. On the 11th of September, the regiment, numbering nine hundred and sixty-six (966) men, proceeded to Washington and was assigned to the Army of the Potomac.

It was first engaged in battle at Fredericksburg, Dec. 13, 1862, and sustained a loss of one commissioned officer and five (5) men wounded.

Colonel Dutton spoke in the highest terms of the conduct of the Regiment, in this its first battle.

In the months of April and May, 1863, the regiment participated in the defense of Suffolk, Va. On the 11th of April it proceeded to the support of the Irish Legion on the Edenton Road, and with 100 rounds of ammunition per man, lay upon its arms until the 14th. It continued in this service until the 2d of May, when it was ordered to cross the Nansemond at Sleepy Hole (a place six miles lower down than the line then occupied), to seize Reed's Ferry and open communication with the 4th R. I. Volunteers, on the left. That the work was well executed will be seen from the following extract :

HEAD-QUARTERS 3D DIVISION, 9TH A. C.,

NEAR SUFFOLK, VA., May 4, 1863.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 28.

(Extract.) Nor will he (the commanding General) suffer to pass unnoticed the services of those who crossed the Nansemond at Sleepy Hole, who drove the enemy's cavalry from Chuckatuck, and siezed Reed's Ferry, capturing an officer and fifteen men.

Such deeds prove the mettle of the men, and show that, when well led, they need fear no enemy.

By command,

BRIG.-GEN. GEORGE W. GETTY,

CHARLES F. GARDINER,

Captain and A. A. General.

Soon after this the regiment was transferred to the Department of Virginia and North Carolina. It acted as Provost Guard of General Dix's command in the raid up the Peninsula. From this service it proceeded to Portsmouth, and afterward crossed the river to Norfolk. After performing provost duties in those cities for nearly five months, it was relieved and ordered to Newport News, where it remained some six weeks. During this time a portion of the regiment, with other forces, under the command of General Graham, made a destructive raid to Brandon on the James River, destroying a large quantity of rebel property.

On the 3d of February, 1864, the regiment was ordered to Morehead City, N. C., and after aiding in repelling the enemy at that point, was sent to Newbern. On the 16th of May, 1864, the regiment took an active part in the battle of Drury's Bluff, Va., and sustained a loss of one hundred and seven (107) officers and men, killed, wounded and missing. No official report of the part borne by the regiment in this battle has ever been received at this office; but the official list of casualties fully attest to the fact that brave men were in its ranks, and that bravely fighting they fell.

On the 25th of May, Colonel Dutton, commanding the brigade, received orders to reconnoitre the left of the enemy's position, and designated the 21st as the regiment for the work, but night coming on he returned the regiment to its camp. On the day following, the 26th, Colonel Dutton, with the brigade, again moved, with orders to push the reconnoissance until stopped by the enemy. After an advance of nearly two miles the enemy was found strongly entrenched. Line of battle was at once formed, but as the skirmishers were becoming engaged, Colonel Dutton, who was then, as usual, on the skirmish line, was mortally wounded. The command devolved upon Lieut.-Colonel Burpee, who was finally obliged to withdraw his command.

Major Crosby, in his report, speaks of the death of Colonel Dutton as follows: Colonel Dutton died from the effects of his wounds June 5th. He graduated at West Point in 1861, Kilpatrick, Custar, O'Rourke, Benjamin, and Farquhar being among his classmates.

"Bold and chivalrous, with a nice sense of honor, a judgment quick and decisive, an unwavering zeal in his chosen profession, he was in every respect a thorough soldier. * * * * * By his companions in arms he will never be forgotten, and to them his last resting place will be as a shrine commemorating the friendships which not the rude shock of war, nor lapse of time, can blight or destroy."

On the 3d of June the regiment participated in the battle of Cold Harbor, Va., and behaved with great steadiness throughout the whole battle, receiving well-merited compliments from division and brigade commanders. The regiment sustained a loss of forty-seven (47) officers and men.

On the 9th of June, Lieut.-Colonel Thomas F. Burpee was mortally wounded while going the rounds as brigade officer of the day. Lieut.-Colonel Burpee had borne his part with distinguished valor, during the Bermuda Hundred campaign, and his coolness and good judgment at the battles of Drury's Bluff and Cold Harbor will not soon be forgotten by his comrades. While in command of his regiment he was always able and efficient, discharged with promptitude every duty, particularly if concerning the care and welfare of his men, by whom he was much loved and respected.

The regiment remained in front of Petersburg until the 3d of September, performing picket duty and engaged in skirmishes with the enemy. Its loss while thus engaged was forty-nine (49) officers and men. It was then ordered within the line of defences at Bermuda Hundred, and remained in that position until Sept. 28th, when orders were received preparatory to a movement.

At 9 A. M. of that day they marched to the James River and crossed on pontoon bridges. It then took up its position and proceeded with its division to the assault on Fort Harrison, and on the day following (29th) Fort Harrison with its garrison and armament of twenty-two pieces of heavy ordnance fell into the hands of the Union army. The fighting was of an extremely severe character, but the Twenty-first did not fail to add new laurels to its wreath.

This was the last general engagement for the regiment, which remained in service, performing the usual routine of camp and picket duty.

Lieut.-Colonel Brown, in his report dated April 10, 1865, speaks of Captain Jennings, who was mortally wounded Sept. 29th, in the following manner: "No truer patriot or braver soldier than he has fallen in defense of the nation's life. He fell as a soldier would wish in the hour of victory, leaving a record for his comrades to emulate."

Nothing of importance occurred subsequently, and the Twenty first regiment Conn. Vols. was mustered out of the service on the 16th day of June, 1865, leaving a record for bravery, fidelity and general good conduct, of which Connecticut may well be proud.

The regiment participated in the following

TWENTY-SECOND REGIMENT INFANTRY.

THE Twenty-Second Regiment Connecticut Volunteers was organized in September, 1862. It was recruited in Hartford and Tolland counties, and rendezvoused at Hartford. It received marching orders October 7th, 1862, proceeded to Washington, was assigned to the Army of the Potomac, and during the winter was stationed at Miner's Hill, Va., near Washington. This regiment was recruited for nine months service, and was the first organized under the call for three hundred thousand militia.

On the 15th of April, 1863, the regiment broke camp at Miner's Hill, marched to Alexandria, and embarked for Fort Monroe; was immediately ordered into camp at Suffolk, where, with little break to the monotony of camp life, it remained until the expiration of its term of service. The regiment originally numbered nine hundred and thirty-five (935) men. The following were its

TWENTY-FOURTH . REGIMENT INFANTRY.

THE Twenty-fourth Regiment Connecticut Volunteers was organized in September, 1862. Six companies of this regiment were recruited in Middlesex county, and the four others—three of them Irish—from Hartford, New Haven and Fairfield counties.

Colonel Samuel M. Mansfield, a Lieutenant in the regular army, was appointed to the command.

This regiment was also assigned to General Banks' expedition, and left its rendezvous at Middletown, Conn., November 18th, 1862, with six hundred and ninety-eight (698) officers and men, for Camp Buckingham, Centreville, L. I., from whence it proceeded to New Orleans, and from thence to Baton Rouge, La. Soon after, it was ordered to join the army before Port Hudson. The following are extracts from monthly returns for May, June and July.

On the 21st of May, 1863, landed from transports and marched to rear of Port Hudson.

May 24th, engaged in skirmishing; drove the enemy from rifle pits and held edge of woods within four hundred yards of enemy's breastworks until next morning, when it was relieved and five companies sent further to the right as skirmishers.

May 27th, skirmishers called in, and regiment moved with division to support General Weitzel's storming columns; and on the 31st was detailed to support batteries on the right.

June 1st it was before Port Hudson, with the reserve of the right wing, until the morning of the 14th, the day of the second assault of Port Hudson, in which the regiment played a conspicuous part. Advanced further to the front in face of a most galling fire, and held the advanced position for the rest of the month, one-half of the regiment on duty day and night.

July 1st, the regiment was in trenches before the enemy and under a brisk fire until the surrender, which took place on the 8th of July.

July 11th, entered the fortress and embarked on transport Danielsonville, thence to Carrollton.

The regiment sustained a total loss during the siege of sixty-six (66) officers and men.

The regiment served in the Department of the Gulf nearly ten and a half months, and was finally mustered-out of service on the 30th of September, 1863.

It took part in the following

TWENTY-FIFTH REGIMENT INFANTRY.

THE Twenty-fifth Regiment Connecticut Volunteers was recruited in Hartford and Tolland counties, and rendezvoused at Camp Halleck, Hartford. On the 14th of November, 1862, the regiment left Hartford for Camp Buckingham, Centerville, L. I., its numerical strength being eight hundred and eleven (811). It formed a part of General Banks' division, and after a short stay at Centerville, embarked for New Orleans, La. No official report of its movements prior to the month of March, 1863, has been received by the Adjutant General.

On the 13th of March the regiment, together with the whole army, advanced toward Port Hudson, on the Bayou Sara and Clinton roads. That night bivouacked about eight miles from Baton Rouge. On the 14th, advanced some five miles further and there took up a position, being but a short distance from the enemy's works. The object of the expedition (attracting the attention of the enemy while the Union fleet passed the batteries, and the masking of a movement on the Clinton road by another portion of the army) having been accomplished, the entire army fell back in a most severe storm, which, while it seriously affected the comfort of our own forces, frustrated the design of the enemy to attack our columns.

The sufferings of the members of the 25th regiment are reported as almost unendurable. On the 16th the regiment bivouacked about eight miles above Baton Rouge in advance of the army. On the 28th of March the regiment embarked for Donaldsonville. On the 31st the regiment started for Thibodeaux where it arrived on the 2d of April, thence by rail to Bayou Boeuf, and on the 9th marched to Brashear City where it remained until the 12th, when it commenced its skirmishing with the enemy. On the morning of the 14th the regiment was thrown to the front and right to skirmish and cover the advance of the main body, and shortly after began the battle of Irish Bend, in which the regiment sustained a total loss of ninety-six (96), while only one (1) of the whole was reported missing, all the others being either killed or wounded. The regiment was commanded by Colonel Bissell in person, and behaved with all the courage and steadiness of veterans. It was in this battle that Second Lieutenant Daniel P. Dewey, of Co. A, a brave and gallant young officer, laid down his life. He was loved and respected for his bravery, fidelity and soldierly qualities, and his loss is severely felt by his comrades.

From the date of the battle of Irish Bend, until May 25th, the regiment was engaged in marches, and was for the most part without communication with its baggage; at one time officers and men being without a change of clothing for a month.

On the 24th of May commenced the investment of the works before Port Hudson, this regiment being assigned the centre. The regiment was under the command of Major McManus during the battle, Colonel Bissell being absent and quite ill.

TWENTY-SIXTH REGIMENT INFANTRY.

THE Twenty-Sixth Regiment Connecticut Volunteers was recruited in New London and Windham counties, and rendezvoused at Camp Russell, Norwich. It numbered eight hundred and ten (810) men, and left the State for Camp Buckingham, Centerville, L. I., Nov. 13th, 1862. It was commanded by Col. Thomas G. Kingsley, and was attached to General Banks' army corps.

Its first general engagement was May 27th, 1863, in an assault on Port Hudson, in which it bore a conspicuous part, and distinguished itself by its energetic action. The regiment occupied the third line in the assault, and was exposed to a murderous fire of shell, shot, grape and canister, which mowed them down by scores. As it advanced the ranks were thinned, until after an hour's severe fighting the men were compelled to seek shelter behind stumps and logs. The Generals commanding Division and Brigade were both wounded, as was also Colonel Kingsley, commanding the regiment. Its total loss during the engagement was one hundred and seven (107) officers and men.

On the 13th of June the regiment, commanded by Lieut.-Colonel Selden, participated in a skirmish before Port Hudson, and sustained a loss of eight (8) men in killed and wounded.

Again on the 14th it was engaged with the enemy before Port Hudson, and sustained a loss of fifty-nine (59) officers and men killed and wounded. The records show that when the 26th came out of the assault its loss was nearly one-half that of the entire brigade. It took into action two hundred and thirty-five (235) officers and men, none of whom faltered, but each one doing all that was required of him, and performing his duty to the utmost of his ability. That it distinguished itself for bravery, fidelity and endurance during the entire siege, is conceded by all who witnessed its gallant deeds.

The official reports received from this regiment by the Adjutant General are very meagre, giving only the casualties; consequently a more detailed summary of its services cannot be given. The regiment returned to Connecticut and was mustered out of service at Norwich, on the 17th of August, 1863. The regiment took part in the following general

TWENTY-SEVENTH REGIMENT INFANTRY.

THE Twenty-seventh Regiment was organized in September, 1862, was recruited wholly from New Haven county, and was composed of some of the finest and best educated young men resident in the county. The regiment was commanded by Colonel Richard S. Bostwick. It received marching orders Oct. 22, 1862, left its camp at New Haven, and proceeded to Washington, with eight hundred and twenty-nine (829) men.

It was assigned to the Army of the Potomac, and on the 13th of December, 1862, participated in the battle of Fredericksburg. Fortunately 230 privates, 18 corporals, 9 sergeants, 5 lieutenants, and 2 captains were detailed for picket duty at Falmouth, and were not relieved in time to participate in the battle with the regiment; otherwise its loss would have been much more severe. Colonel Bostwick, in his report of the battle, dated Dec. 18, 1862, remarks: "Without any attempt to flatter a regiment which I have the honor to command, I can justly say that both officers and men behaved exceedingly well, doing nobly, without flinching, under a severe and galling fire from the enemy, of which the list of killed and wounded is a criterion."

The regiment sustained a total loss of one hundred and five (105) officers and men, killed and wounded, and three (3) enlisted men missing. After the battle of Fredericksburg, the regiment was engaged in the usual picket duty and skirmishing incident to army life, and on the 3d of May, 1863, was engaged with the enemy in the sanguinary battle of Chancellorsville, Va., sustaining an aggregate loss of two hundred and ninety-two (292) officers and men, the most of whom were captured. The captured were soon exchanged, and the regiment continued its active life on picket and in the skirmish until the 1st of July, when it proceeded to Gettysburg, Pa., and on the 2d and 3d was engaged in the battle at that place. Its aggregate loss in this engagement was thirty-nine (39) killed, wounded and missing.

It is to be regretted that no reports of the part taken by the regiment in the last two battles were ever received by the Adjutant General. Before the regiment left the army, the following order was issued by the commanding officer of the brigade to which it was attached.

HEAD-QUARTERS 4TH BRIG. 1ST DIV. 2D CORPS,

CAMP IN PLEASANT VALLEY, VA., July 17, 1863.

GENERAL ORDERS No. 9.

The term of service of the 27th Connecticut Volunteers having nearly expired, it has been relieved from further duty, and ordered to report at its place of enrollment.

The Colonel commanding the Brigade desires, in parting with the officers and men of the 27th Connecticut, to convey to them his sincere feelings of regret at losing their services, while he at the same time, thanks them for the obedience and faithfulness which has been a marked feature of the regiment.

Knowing it intimately for so many months of active and arduous service, having been an eye witness of its many deeds of gallantry, and of the noble devotion displayed by it on many a memorable day during the time in which he had the honor to command its services—he feels it a duty he owes not only to the living heroes, but to the memory of those who have fallen on the field in battling in our righteous cause, to bear testimony to the valor and gallantry it has always displayed. Side by side with the veterans of the Army of the Potomac it has fought, and by the gallantry of its conduct won for itself an enviable name and reputation, and which may well, in after years, cause all who belong to it to feel a pardonable pride in having it to say that they served in the 27th Connecticut.

By order of COLONEL BROOKS,

CHARLES P. HATCH,

Lieutenant and A. A. A. General.

The regiment was mustered out at New Haven, July 27, 1863, upon the expiration of term of service.

After having fought side by side with the veterans under Generals Burnside, Hooker, and Mead, the regiment was mustered-out of service on the 27th of July, 1863.

TWENTY-EIGHTH REGIMENT INFANTRY.

THE Twenty-eighth Regiment was composed of eight companies, recruited in Litchfield and Fairfield counties, and numbered six hundred and seventy-eight (678) men.

It went into camp at New Haven, where it remained until it received marching orders, November 18, 1862. This regiment was also assigned to General Banks' army corps, making the fifth furnished by Connecticut for this expedition. Colonel Samuel P. Ferris, its commander, was appointed from the regular army.

During the early part of its service, the regiment was reported at Pensacola, Fla. Soon after, it received marching orders, joined the army moving upon Port Hudson, and was actively engaged in the assault on that place, June 14, 1863. It sustained a loss of fifty-nine (59) in killed, wounded and missing. Among the former were two commissioned officers, Captain David D. Hoag and Lieutenant Charles Durand. No official reports from this regiment were received by the Adjutant General, and it is therefore impossible to give a detailed account of its service. The only list of casualties received was contained in the monthly return for June, 1863.

The regiment was present at the fall of Port Hudson, and was ordered inside the works, and formed part of the garrison until relieved and ordered home. It was mustered out of service at New Haven, Conn., August 28, 1863.

It took part in the following

TWENTY-NINTH REGIMENT INFANTRY.

(COLORED.)

RECRUITING for this regiment commenced early in the fall of 1863, and by the latter part of January, 1864, the maximum number had been enlisted. During its organization the regiment was stationed at Fair Haven, Conn. It was formally mustered into the service of the United States on the 8th of March, 1864. On the 12th of March, Colonel William B. Wooster, formerly of the 20th C. V., reported to the regiment, and soon after assumed command. On the 20th of March it left New Haven harbor, on board transport, and after a pleasant voyage, disembarked at Annapolis, Md.

The regiment up to this time had been unarmed, but were here supplied with a full complement of the best Springfield rifle muskets. It was assigned to the Ninth Corps, then assembling at Annapolis, and on the ninth of April left Annapolis for Hilton Head, S. C., thence to Beaufort, S. C., where it disembarked on the 13th. After receiving a few months instruction, the regiment was ordered to Virginia, and on the 8th of August left Beaufort for Bermuda Hundred, Va., where it disembarked on the 14th of the same month. It was immediately ordered out on reconnoissance, and was reported to have acted in this, its first engagement with the enemy, in a highly creditable manner.

On the 24th of August the Tenth Corps, to which the regiment was attached, relieved the Eighteenth Corps in front of Petersburg, and the regiment continued in the trenches until the 24th of September, when it was ordered to the rear for rest and the replenishing of its scanty wardrobe, the men being ragged and shoeless. After a few days of rest, it was again in motion, and was continually engaged in reconnoissance and skirmishes, until the 19th of November, when it was ordered to garrison certain detached forts on the New Market road, which were considered of great importance on account of their relation to the whole line north of the James. That this regiment was sent to hold them, was no mean tribute to its valor and efficiency.

It remained here until Dec. 5th, when it removed to the left of Fort Harrison, forming a part of the 2d Brigade, 1st Division, 25th Army Corps. The regiment continued in this position during the balance of the winter, picketing, drilling, building forts, and making roads, preparatory to the spring campaign.

Prior to March, 1865, the regiment had sustained a loss of one hundred and forty-three (143) in killed, wounded and missing.

In March, 1865, the regiment was stationed in Fort Harrison, one of the most important positions in the whole line. On Saturday and Sunday, April 1st and 2d, the fighting on the left had been terrific and generally in favor of the Union troops. The regiment was ordered to observe with great care the movements of the enemy in its immediate front

THIRTIETH REGIMENT INFANTRY.

(COLORED.)

PART OF THIRTY-FIRST U. S. COLORED TROOPS.

THE Thirtieth Regiment (colored) was organized during the winter of 1863 and 1864, at New Haven, it having been found that more than one colored regiment could be raised in Connecticut. It was never filled to the maximum, however, and only four companies were finally organized. Those were ordered to Virginia, and on the 4th day of June, 1864, were consolidated with the 31st U. S. C. T., and the regiment was assigned to the 3d Brigade, 4th division, 9th Army Corps.

The Division was then in position in rear to prevent the enemy's cavalry from attacking its rear. It remained in that position until the 14th of the same month, when it proceeded across the Chickahominy and James rivers, and marched to the front of Petersburg. From that date until the 29th of July, it was continually moving to different positions on the line without any close engagement.

On the morning of the 30th, the regiment was in line preparatory to an assault on the enemy's works. The enemy's works had been mined, and the troops, as soon as the explosion had occurred, were ordered forward under a galling cross-fire, which thinned their ranks terribly before reaching the crater. Lieut. Col. W. E. W. Ross fell seriously wounded while gallantly leading his regiment. His brave and manly conduct had won for him the love and respect of all, and his loss was deeply regretted. Major Wright, in his report of the engagement, remarks; "I cannot speak too highly of both officers and men in this engagement. More bravery and enthusiasm I never witnessed; besides their patriotic ardor, they went into that action with a determination to command the respect of the white troops, which they knew could only be obtained by hard fighting." The regiment lost in this engagement one hundred and thirty-six (136) in killed and wounded. Subsequently it followed the movements of the army to South Side Railroad, and in October participated in a severe skirmish near Fort Sedgwick, in which it lost twenty (20) enlisted men and one (1) commissioned officer.

On the 6th of November, 1864, Col. Henry C. Ward assumed command of the regiment, which was then in camp near Poplar Grove Church, on the left flank of the Army of the Potomac. On the 18th of the same month the regiment moved to the Bermuda Hundred front, between the James and Appomatox rivers, where it relieved a brigade of one hundred day troops, and re-established the picket line which they had lost. From this time until the end of December it held the right of the Bermuda line, under a constant and worrying fire from the enemy. On the 25th of December it joined the 25th Corps in the Army of the James, near Fort Harrison.

During March, 1865, a detachment was sent for duty at the Dutch Gap Canal, but rejoined the regiment in the movements of the spring campaign. On the 27th of March it
